PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

A Bill to provide for the sanitation of Emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour-districts in Assam.

ARRANGEMENT OF SECTIONS.

The following Bill with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, is, by order of the President, published for general information :—

A Bill to provide for the sanitation of Emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour districts in Assam.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is provided in section seven of the Inland Emigration Act, 1882, that, subject to the provisions of section five of that Act, nothing in the Act is to be deemed to prohibit any native of India from emigrating to any of the labour districts otherwise than under the provisions of the Act;

And whereas natives of India emigrate in large numbers to the labour-districts otherwise than under those provisions ;

And whereas in the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal great sickness and mortality have occurred among such emigrants on their way to the labour-districts ;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title, extent and commencement of Act.

1. This Act may be called the "Inland Emigrants' Health Act, 1889" ;

(2) It extends to the whole of the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and

(3) It shall come into force on the day on which it is published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Agent."

"Agent" means a person who engages or assists a native of India to emigrate otherwise than under the provisions of the Inland Emigration Act, 1882.

"Dependent"

"Dependent" means any woman (not being herself an emigrant), child, or aged or incapacitated relative or friend, accompanying an emigrant with the consent of the agent.

"Emigrant."

"Emigrant" means a native of India engaged or assisted by an agent so to emigrate.

"Emigrate."

"Emigrate" denotes the departure of any native of India of the age of sixteen years or upwards (other than a native of any of the labour-districts) from any part of India for the purpose of labouring for hire in any of the labour-districts otherwise than as a domestic servant.

"Labour-districts."

"Labour-districts" means the districts of Lakhimpur, Sibságar, Nowgong, Darrang, Kámrúp, Goálpára, Khási Hills, Cachar and Sylhet in the Chief Commissionership of Assam.

Power to make rules for protection in Bengal of the health of emigrants on their way to Assam.

3. The Local Government may from time to time make rules with respect to any of the following matters, namely—

(a) the routes by which emigrants and their dependents are to travel on their way to any of the labour-districts ;

(b) the depôts and rest-houses to be provided by, and at the cost of, agents for the accommodation of emigrants and their dependents on or off such routes, and the sanitation and superintendence of such depôts and rest-houses ;

(c) the mode, and the numerical strength of the parties, in which emigrants and their dependents are to travel, the arrangements to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for facilitating their journey, the length of their daily marches by road, and the provision to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for the carriage of women and dependents and of emigrants suffering from sickness ;

(d) the food to be supplied to emigrants and their dependents by, and at the cost of, agents, and the provision to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for the proper cooking of such food ;

(e) the water-supply to be maintained by, or at the cost of, agents for the use of emigrants and their dependents

(f) the clothing to be supplied to emigrants and their dependents by, and at the cost of, agents ;

(g) the hospital accommodation, medical treatment and maintenance to be provided by, or at the cost of, agents for emigrants or their dependents suffering from sickness on their way to any of the labour districts, and the arrangements to be so made, and maintenance so provided, for any emigrant and his dependents where either he or any of them is so suffering ;

(h) the disposal of dead bodies of emigrants and their dependents at the cost of agents ;

(i) the powers of entry and inspection which may be exercised for the purposes of any rule under this clause, and the authorities by whom those powers may be exercised ;

(j) the mode of compelling agents to discharge their liabilities under any rule under this clause ; and,

(k) generally, the giving effect to the purposes of this Act.

(2) In making any rule under this section, the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

(3) If a rule under this section authorises an officer of the Government to expend any public money in the event of default on the part of an agent to comply with any rule under that section, the money, together with simple interest thereon at the rate of six per cent. yearly, shall be recoverable from the agent under the provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880.

(4) Nothing in the last foregoing clause shall be construed to bar a prosecution for any breach of a rule where the breach thereof has been made punishable in pursuance of the power conferred by clause (2) of this section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Inland Emigration Act of 1882, following in this respect the tenour of the law previously in force, makes ample provision for the sanitary arrangements connected with "labourers" on their way to Assam; but little benefit results, because the definition of "labourer" given in the Act is so restricted that it does not, under existing circumstances, apply to the majority of the emigrants during their journey through Bengal. The term is limited to persons who have executed labour contracts—a proceeding now very generally deferred until the emigrants have arrived at their destination, or at least until they have passed beyond the confines of Bengal. The expediency of permitting contracts under the Act to be postponed to so late a stage is under consideration, but meanwhile it is urgently necessary to provide for the sanitary supervision of emigrants on their journey, and particularly for the inspection of the lodging-houses and depôts in which they are detained. This has been done in the present Bill by giving to the Lieutenant-Governor power to make rules for the sanitary protection of all emigrants, similar to those which he exercises under Act I of 1882 in regard to "labourers."

8. (1) The conservator of any port subject to this Act may, with respect to any vessel within the port, give directions for carrying into effect any rule for the time being in force therein under section 6.

(2) If any person wilfully and without lawful excuse refuses or neglects to obey any lawful direction of the conservator, after notice thereof has been given to him, he shall, for every such offence, be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and with further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day on which, after such notice as aforesaid, he wilfully and without lawful excuse continues to disobey the direction.

(3) In case of such refusal or neglect, the conservator may do, or cause to be done, all acts necessary for the purpose of carrying the direction into execution, and may hire and employ proper persons for that purpose, and all reasonable expenses incurred in doing such acts shall be recoverable by him from the person so refusing or neglecting to obey the direction.

Power to cut warps and ropes.

9. The conservator of any such port may, in case of urgent necessity, cut, or cause to be cut, any warp, rope, cable or hawser endangering the safety of any vessel in the port or at or near to the entrance thereof.

Removal of obstructions within limits of port.

10. (1) The conservator may remove, or cause to be removed, any timber, raft or other thing, floating or being in any part of any such port, which in his opinion obstructs or impedes the free navigation thereof or the lawful use of any pier, jetty, landing-place, wharf, quay, dock, mooring or other work on any part of the shore or bank which has been declared to be within the limits of the port and is not private property.

(2) The owner of any such timber, raft or other thing shall be liable to pay the reasonable expenses of the removal thereof, and if such owner or any other person has without lawful excuse caused any such obstruction or impediment, or causes any public nuisance affecting or likely to affect such free navigation or lawful use, he shall also be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(3) The conservator or any Magistrate having jurisdiction over the offence may cause any such nuisance to be abated.

Recovery of expenses of removal.

11. If the owner of any such timber, raft or other thing, or the person who has caused any such obstruction, impediment or public nuisance as is mentioned in the last foregoing section neglects to pay the reasonable expenses incurred in the removal thereof, within one week after demand, or within fourteen days after such removal has been notified in the official Gazette or in such other manner as the Local Government by general or special order directs, the conservator may cause such timber, raft or other thing, or the materials of any public nuisance so removed, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be sold by public auction; and may retain all the expenses of such removal and sale out of the proceeds of the sale, and shall pay the surplus of such proceeds, or deliver so much of the thing or materials as may remain unsold, to the person entitled to receive the same;

and, if no such person appears, shall cause the same to be kept and deposited in such manner as the Local Government directs;

and may, if necessary, from time to time, realize the expenses of keeping the same, together with the expenses of sale, by a further sale of so much of the thing or materials as may remain unsold.

Removal of lawful obstructions.

12. (1) If any obstruction or impediment to the navigation of any port subject to this Act has been lawfully made, or has become lawful by reason of the long continuance of such obstruction or impediment, or otherwise, the conservator shall report the same for the information of the Local Government, and shall, with the sanction of that Government, cause the same to be removed or altered, making reasonable compensation to the person suffering damage by such removal or alteration.

(2) Any dispute arising concerning such compensation shall be determined according to the law relating to like disputes in the case of land required for public purposes.

Fouling of Government moorings.

13. Port-charges payable in one port recoverable at any other port.

44. (1) If the master of any vessel in respect of which any such sum as is mentioned in the last foregoing section is payable causes her to leave any port without having paid the sum, the authority appointed to receive port-dues, fees and other charges at the port under this Act may require in writing the authority appointed to receive port-dues, fees and other charges under this Act at any other port in British India to which she may proceed, or in which she may be, to levy the sum.

(3) Any Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act in any port to which the vessel may proceed, or in which she may be found, shall be deemed to have jurisdiction in any proceeding under this section.

Port-due on vessels in ballast.

Explanations to Part II of the First Schedule.

Explanation 1.—In this Part of the Schedule—

(a) "ship" means a sailing vessel, and "steamer" a steam-vessel:

(b) "coasting ship" or "coasting steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer which at any port discharges cargo exclusively from, or takes in cargo exclusively for, any port in the island of Ceylon or in any part of India between the westernmost part of Sind and the south-easternmost part of Burma; and "coasting steamer" includes a coasting steam-vessel having a general pass under section 164 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878:

(c) "foreign ship" or "foreign steamer" means respectively a ship or steamer not being a coasting ship or coasting steamer.

Explanation 2.—As regards the levy of port-dues, each of the following pairs of ports, namely, Cocanada and Coringa, Nagore and Negapatam, Beypore and Calicut, is to be treated as if it were only one port; every vessel in respect of which such dues have been charged and taken at one of any of the said pairs being exempted from the dues on entering the other of the same pair immediately after leaving the one in which the dues were charged and taken.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. I. HARRISON, Lt.-Colonel, R.E.,
Offg. Joint-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
P. W. Dept.

No. 514, dated Arrah, the 7th February 1889.

From—C. W. ODLING, ESQ., Superintending Engineer, Sone Circle,
To—The Chief Engineer, Bengal, Irrigation Branch.

I HAVE the honor to submit, for your information, the papers marginally noted, containing the result of the crop experiments carried out in the Sone Circle during the kharif season 1888-89. Mr. Luson, C.S., on special duty, at my request, undertook the task of tabulating and commenting on the whole of the experiments. His note thereon is of so much public interest that I beg to suggest that it shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

Enclosures.

Note by Mr. H Luson, C.S., dated 4th February 1889.

2. There has been much discussion as to the yield of crops on lands irrigated by the canals, but with the exceptoin of the experiments taken yearly by canal officers, which are annually noticed in the Revenue Report, there are few facts to go on.

3. The experiments commented on in the note were taken, (I) by Mr. Luson himself, (II) by Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne, who with great public spirit undertook the duty at my request, and (III) by canal officers and subordinates. Experiments classes (I) and (II) are separately detailed in the note, whilst those under class (III) have been grouped together.

4. The accuracy of the experiments carried out by canal officers having been somewhat questioned last year before the Irrigation Committee, they were this year carried out with the utmost publicity in the presence of civil officers, zemindars and others who could be induced to attend. The names of the persons present at each experiment are noted in the reports Appendix (II), and you will on inspection see that representatives of all classes interested in agriculture were present, and that the experiments were generally largely attended.

Note by HEWLING LUSON, ESQ., C.S., on special duty in the Public Works Department, upon crop experiments on canal-irrigated dhan taken in the Sone Circle during the kharif season of 1888-89,—dated Arrah, the 4*th February* 1889.

THIS report incorporates, at the Superintending Engineer's request, the figures supplied by Messrs. Burrows, Thomson, and Mylne of Beehea, and by the Executive Engineers in charge of the three Divisions of the Circle, with the results of my own experiments.

2. The returns given by the Canal Sub-divisional Officers have been separated from those given by their subordinates, and in the following tables the figures obtained by (a) Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne, (b) the Canal Sub-divisional Officers, (c) the Canal subordinates, and (d) by myself, are compared side by side

3. All the weighments made by Messrs. Burrows. Thomson. and Mylne and myself were made after the grain and straw had been thoroughly dried In my experiments the crop, directly it was cut, was sewn up in stout cloth and sent to head-quarters; it was not weighed till after exposure to the sun for 15 days on the average. With the exception of 15 experiments made by Mr. Maconchy, Executive Engineer, and Messrs. White and Clowes, Assistant Engineers. all the figures supplied by the Canal Officers represent weighments of crops made at once upon the fields, as was directed in paragraph 1 of the Superintending Engineer's instructions of the 25th October last. Though weighing on the field was evidently meant to secure publicity, yet it seems to me that accuracy has to some extent been sacrificed. Rice is always cut before it is quite ripe, and is then laid upon the ground to dry for several days, after which it is tied up in bundles and taken to the threshing-floors. There is a saying current in these districts, दुधी धान बुढ रबी (dudhi dhan buddha rabi), i.e. "you must cut rice when the grains are still milky, but rabi crops you may gather when they are old" and I have noticed that, if rice is allowed to get quite ripe before cutting, the corn drops out very easily. In order, therefore, to secure all the grain, experiments should be made on crops which are damp.

4. Seventeen experiments were made by Messrs Maconchy and White, a subordinate, and myself, upon the shrinkage of dhan in drying. The average of these experiments gives about 8·33 per cent. Twenty-one experiments were made by me upon the shrinkage of straw, and they averaged nearly 33·33 per cent Tables showing the calculations of these averages will be found in Appendix No 1.

5. The co-efficient of shrinkage is not constant; it depends upon the kind of rice and when it was last watered. Some crops are irrigated till within a few days of cutting for the sake of the second crop sown with the dhan It would also make a material difference whether the experiment was made in the morning or afternoon, as the dew at night is heavy. The variations in the weight of the straw from shrinkage are obviously liable to be greater than those of the grain. In order, however, to compare the various results, I have reduced the figures of all the wet weighments according to the co-efficients given in the last paragraph. The actual figures sent in will be found in Appendix No. 2.

6. Transplanted aghani dhan irrigated throughout the season with canal water.—The following table represents the results of 222 experiments upon first-class crops only. None of the figures are supposed to represent average crops; they are intended to show the maximum obtainable under canal irrigation.

The results are given in maunds and seers per acre. Dhan means unhusked rice.

All figures marked* represent not actual weighments, but weighments reduced by the co-efficients given in paragraph 4.

The results obtained from the different sources are nearly identical. The figures of Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne are slightly lower than the rest because a certain amount of wastage occurred from the method they adopted of drying the crop. They had it tied up in bundles and carried to head-quarters, so that some grain must have fallen out on the way. The wastage, however, would not be much greater than occurs usually when the cultivators carry the bundles from the fields. In my experiments there was absolutely no wastage, because as soon as it was cut the crop was sewn up in bags which were afterwards opened only in my presence. Similarly in weighing wet crops upon the ground the Canal Officers would not make any waste.

The figures of the Sub-divisional Officers are higher than the rest evidently because, taking a very small number of experiments each, they were mostly able to choose the very best crops. My own experiments were made at different places throughout the whole circle in the three districts, Shahabad, Gya, and Patna; and as all the aghani rice in the country is cut within a few days I had little time to choose specially fine crops.

The general average of the subordinates is somewhat lower than it should have been because in the Buxar and Eastern Sone Divisions sufficient care was not taken to experiment upon first class crops only. The Sub-divisional Officer of Sikraol remarks that in some case the best crops were allowed to be cut before the experiments were started, and in others the Sub-Overseers cut the rice nearest their bungalows to save the trouble of going a little distance for better. Similarly the returns of the Daodnagar sub-division have been reduced because in several cases the experiments were put off till the 25th of December, 12 days after I had seen that most of the crop had been cut. The subordinates of the Arrah Division have been better supervised and their figures are good, but it seems to me that in future no officer below the rank of a Sub-divisional Officer should take crop experiments. Six experiments carefully made by each Sub-divisional Officer would be of more value than any number made by subordinates who do not appreciate the value of scientific accuracy.

The variations in individual experiments (my best being 44 maunds 8 seers of dhan an acre and my worst 20 maunds 32 seers) are due to the differences of kinds of rice and kinds of soil, and I think also in some cases to want of experience in picking out the crop likely to give the largest outturn.

The crops in all these experiments are stated to have been regularly irrigated with canal water. Accordingly, as the rains failed after 9th September, they owe their existence entirely to the canals.

7. Kartika dhan.—The following table shows the results per acre of the 31 experiments made upon Kartika or early rice regularly irrigated by canal water. Figures marked * have been reduced on account of the crops having been weighed damp—

Kartika rice is not grown to any very large extent in the irrigated area, small patches being sown usually in each village for the early production of straw and dhan; hence apparently only three experiments were taken by representatives of the Canal Department.

The experiment of the subordinate of the Agiaon sub-division probably does not represent the best crop of the neighbourhood, but the most convenient to cut.

8. Broadcast dhan.—Eight experiments were made upon rice sown broadcast and irrigated regularly from the canals. Kartika and aghani are not separated in the following table. Figures marked* have been reduced on account of the crops having been weighed wet:—

Dhan is very seldom sown broadcast in areas in lease for canal water. Under the ahra system of irrigation considerable quantities of broadcast are sown inside the ahras on the tal, but the higher form of cultivation prevails under the canal system, as a regular supply of water can be depended upon, and I found a difficulty in obtaining good fields for experiment. Broadcast rice is very coarse and less valuable than the kinds transplanted. It loses more considerably in weight on drying.

9. Aghani dhan irrigated after 15th October.—As requested, specimens of the best rice that did not receive canal water till after 15th October, and had not before been irrigated from an ahra, are given. These experiments were made, some on transplanted and some on broadcast dhan—

* Weighed wet; figures reduced by co-efficients given in paragraph 4.

I am inclined to doubt the accuracy of some of the results given by the Monoharpur subordinates; it is not improbable that crops which had been previously irrigated from an ahra, which afterwards dried up, have been taken. From what I saw of the aghani dhan that depended upon rain alone, and received no water from ahra or canal till the 15th October, I think that the produce of scarcely any field exceeded 10 maunds an acre.

No rain fell after 9th September till the time of harvest, so that the above figures (though not so trustworthy as they might be) tend to show this result—that the best crops, not artificially watered last season, were reduced by five weeks' want of water to less than one-third of what they would have been if irrigated throughout.

10. Dhan irrigated from ahras only.—One experiment was taken by Mr. White, Assistant Engineer, Sub-divisional Officer of Daodnagar, upon rice irrigated from an ahra, and 18 such by subordinates. I took none, as my instructions stated that they were not required. The following is an analysis of the figures:—

The figures of the subordinates are of little value. as, although they may represent the best ahra-irrigated rice that could be conveniently found by them, except in the case of large ahras almost all the rice not watered by the canals was very insufficiently irrigated or died. These figures do not represent the results that can be produced by a plentiful supply of ahra water. I saw rice irrigated from ahras in one or two places at least as good as the best canal-irrigated rice, but in a year like the last, it is extremely difficult to make a comparison of the best crops under both systems, because in scarcely any villages near the canals was a plentiful supply of ahra water kept up throughout the season.

If comparisons are to be made between crops irrigated by the two kinds of water, the experiments should certainly be conducted by officers of the proper experience and qualifications. Similar kinds of rice grown on similar lands under exactly similar conditions need to be selected with very great judgment, if indeed the exact similarity of all the conditions can ever be established in any case.

11. Soils.—The chief soils of the area commanded by the canals are sand, clay, and loam, and mixtures of two or all three of these in various proportions. There are distinctive names for the ordinary combinations which every cultivator knows, but there are other names returned with the results of the various experiments which in different parts cover widely different proportions. Those concerning which there is doubt as to their composition I have not introduced into the following tables. The more common forms about which there can be little chance of error are the following:—

Sandy soils.

Bal	Chiefly sand.
Benga	Chiefly sand.
Balwat	Sand and loam, but more sand.
Balmat	Sand and loam, but more sand.
Balsunder ...	Sand and loam, but more sand.
Dhus	Clay and sand, sand predominating.

Clayey soils.

Kewal or Kerail ...	Chiefly clay.
Garmat	Clay and loam, but more clay.
Garwat	Clay and loam, but more clay.
Poura	Clay and sand.
Sigta	Clay and ashes.
Rekhour	Clay and ashes.

Loamy soils.

Doras or Dorsahi.

These names appear against 79 of the experiments upon regularly irrigated aghani dhan taken by Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne, the Sub-divisional Officers, and myself, and against 95 similar experiments reported by the canal subordinates. As in nearly all the former 79 the crops were weighed dry and are more trustworthy, I give the results separately from the latter 95 as follows:—

* All these figures have been reduced by the co-efficients given in paragraph 4 on account of the experiments having been made on wet crops.

From these tables it is clear that sandy soils are decidedly somewhat better for the cultivation of dhan than clayey soils: they would seem also to be better than loamy soils. These results are in accordance with the general opinion throughout these districts. They prove also that very good dhan can be grown upon clayey soils.

As the best crops have been selected for experiment, I have no doubt that the best lands only of each class grew them.

12. Number of years canal water used upon the lands experimented upon.—The remarks in this paragraph refer only to transplanted aghani dhan. Of the 25 experiments made by me, in 21 the fields were situated in long-leased areas. Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne do not state how long canal water had been used on the lands they experimented upon, but I know that nearly the whole of their zemindari in which canal water is taken is under long lease. Twenty-nine out of the 33 experiments by Sub-divisional Officers were made in long leased areas, and in 129 cases out of the 138 reported by the subordinates canal water had been taken on long lease.

In 23 out of my 25 cases canal water had been continuously taken for nine years or more. Of the remaining two, in one canal water had been used for three years, and in the other never before. The results of these two are slightly below the average of the 25.

The Sub-divisional Officers have noted the numbers of years of continual irrigation in 25 of their experiments. In six the lands had received canal water for 12 years, in one for 11 years, in two for 10 years, in one for 9 years, in one for 8 years, in five for 7 years, in six for 6 years, in one for 5 years, in two for 4 years, and in nine for less.

The subordinates have noted the periods of regular irrigation in 120 cases as follows:—Two for 14 years, fourteen for 12 years, three for 11 years, seventeen for 10 years, twenty-seven for 9 years, twelve for 8 years, thirteen for 7 years, seven for 6 years, thirteen for 5 years, three for 4 years, seven for 3 years, and two never before irrigated.

In fact the experiments upon transplanted aghani dhan have been taken generally upon lands continuously irrigated by canal water for a number of years, and it is therefore impossible from the returns to compare the results of the continued use of canal water with those for lands to which it has not before been applied.

13. Various kinds of dhan.—Innumerable varieties of dhan are grown in South Behar. A common saying runs रजपूत-ओ-धान-के-ओर-नहिँ-है (Rajput o dhan ke or nahin hai), "there is no limit to the classes of Rajputs or the kinds of dhan." Of the 197 experiments upon canal irrigated transplanted aghani dhan before me, against which the names are recorded the following is an analysis:—

Name of rice (aghani).	Number of experiments.	Name of rice (aghani).	Number of experiments.

14. Rents.—The rents of the fields experimented upon have been usually recorded except by Messrs. Burrows, Thomson and Mylne, who were not requested to do so.

The following figures represent the nagdi rates of rent per acre paid for the lands on which regularly irrigated aghani dhan was grown.

Of the 25 experiments made by myself upon this crop, in 20 nagdi rents were paid, and their average is Rs. 3-10½ a bigha, or Rs. 5-13$\frac{3}{5}$ an acre. The table below shows the rents in these 20 cases compared with the outturn. The figures represent the rent, exclusive of road cess, public work cess, neg, &c.—

20	3	3$\frac{1}{5}$	35	24	36	32	8

The mark* means that khesari or some second crop was sown with the dhan.

It will be noticed that the rent does not correspond with the outturn. Indeed, throughout the whole circle rents do not vary exactly with the fertility of the soil or the outturn. As a rule Guzashtadars and Brahmin and Rajput ryots pay less than the lower classes. Some landlords are less grasping or know their interests less than others.

The Sub-divisional Officers recorded figures for rent in 31 cases; but, except Mr. White, none state whether cesses are included. As sometimes the rent paid is inclusive of these and sometimes exclusive, the returns are not quite so accurate as mine. Nevertheless, the average is almost the same—Rs. 3-11$\frac{23}{31}$ a bigha, or Rs. 5-15$\frac{91}{155}$ an acre.

The subordinates recorded rents in 96 experiments. They too omit to note whether cesses are included ; thus—

	Number of experiments.	Average rent per acre.
		Rs. A
Buxar Division.
Basawan sub-division	13	7 $10\frac{38}{65}$
Monoharpur ditto	22	5 $3\frac{51}{55}$

Nasriganj ditto	6	5 $1\frac{3}{5}$
Koath ditto	13	4 $12\frac{36}{65}$
Ramnagar ditto	6	4 $9\frac{3}{5}$
Total ...	96	5 $10\frac{7}{60}$

The total average, Rs. 5-$10\frac{7}{60}$ an acre, or Rs. 3-$8\frac{31}{96}$ a bigha, is almost the same as the results obtained by the Sub-divisional Officers and myself.

15. In conclusion, I beg to observe that all the calculations have been made and verified by myself. As some of the returns were by bighas and some by acres, and as almost all the figures of the Canal Officers and subordinates had to be reduced on account of the crops not having been dried, this has been a work of some considerable labour. I deemed the subject too important to trust it to clerks.

HEWLING LUSON.

APPENDIX No. 1.

	572	27
Difference ...	45	21 = 7·33 per cent. nearly

The average of my own four experiments is 7·72 per cent., and in each case the dhan was conveyed short distances before being weighed. I have accordingly added one per cent. to the general average, and taken the shrinkage at 8·33 per cent. or $\frac{1}{12}$th.

Straw.—In 21 experiments I found the total weight of wet straw and dhan weighed together on the field decreased almost exactly 25 per cent. on being perfectly dried. On the whole of my experiments, the proportion of dry dhan to dry straw is about as 7 : 10, and having, as found above, the shrinkage for dhan, we can calculate that for straw on 21 experiments thus—

If a = wet dhan, a^1 = dry dhan, b = wet straw, and b^1 = dry straw; then $\frac{a^1}{b^1} = \frac{7}{10}$; $\frac{a^1}{a} = \frac{11}{12}$ and $\frac{a^1 + b^1}{a + b} = \frac{3}{4}$; eliminating a^1 and a, $\frac{b^1}{b} = \frac{330}{496} = \frac{2}{3}$ almost exactly. Therefore the shrinkage for straw is 33·33 per cent., or ⅓rd.

APPENDIX No. 2.

The actual figures submitted by the Executive Engineers.

No. 4980, dated Beheea, the 14th December 1888.

From—MESSRS. BURROWS, THOMSON AND MYLNE,
To—The Superintending Engineer, Arrah.

WE forward herewith the results of 52 crop experiments, which show a very satisfactory outturn of paddy from canal-irrigated lands.

Only the best crops were selected, and it should be remembered that the season was peculiarly favourable, inasmuch as there was no blight.

We can vouch for the correctness of the experiments.

To—The Superintending Engineer, Sone Circle.

IN reference to the enquiry contained in your No. 5059, dated 18th instant, we have to state that the grain and straw were weighed when dry.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Reckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CALCUTTA, the 2nd April 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 29TH MARCH 1889.

AT the close of the previous week weather conditions were slightly disturbed in South and East Bengal, and a few local storms had occurred on the 21st and 22nd in the south-east of the province. Owing to the gradual filling up of the depression that existed, weather conditions were improving, but a few local showers fell at the beginning of the present week in the neighbourhood of Calcutta and in East Bengal. Pressure then became very uniform, and though continuing to rise, the general distribution remained unaltered during the first half of the week. Temperature changes were generally irregular, a rapid increase taking place over small areas, while at others the temperature was very nearly normal. Strong south-westerly winds have continued blowing throughout the week at the head of the Bay. On Tuesday, the 26th, pressure fell, and a low-pressure area began to form in Northern India, partly extending over Bengal. On the following day it deepened considerably in North Behar and North Bengal, and a well-marked depression was formed, and the weather was very unsettled over the hills. The fall was very rapid over the whole of Bengal, and gradients became steep at the head of the Bay. Very little rain fell, however, in connection with the storm, the only report being ·1 inch at Darjeeling. Pressure rose with moderate rapidity on Thursday, and continued to rise slowly on Friday, when pressure became very nearly normal. During the latter half of the week conditions were slightly unsettled over the whole province, but beyond causing slight cloud, the fine weather was generally not interrupted.

Pressure.—Pressure rose at the beginning of the week and continued rising, while great uniformity everywhere prevailed during the first three days of the week. On Tuesday and Wednesday a fall occurred and a deep depression formed over the north of the province. The depression began to fill up on Thursday, and the rise continued slowly on Friday. Pressure was largely in excess on Monday, but in consequence of the rapid fall, it was from ·05 inch to ·1 inch in defect on Wednesday. After that pressure again rose and became very nearly normal by the end of the week. During the rapid fall of Wednesday some stations reported a fall amounting to nearly a fifth of an inch. For the whole week, however, the mean pressure has been slightly in excess of the normal, the excess usually ranging up to about 0·05 inch.

Temperature.—Temperature changes have been generally irregular during the greater part of the week, and there has been considerable diversity in the reports from the different stations. At most of the stations a rather rapid rise has been going on throughout the week, and temperature has been always in excess of the normal. On Thursday the maximum temperature at Cuttack was 107·9° and at Midnapore 106·4°. The only general fall that took place during the week was on Friday, and then it in no case amounted to more than 3°. The mean temperature for the whole province has been about 2° in excess of the normal. The largest excess was in East and South-West Bengal, where it has amounted to over 3°. In all the other districts, except North Behar, the mean was over 2° in excess, and for North Behar about 1°.

The general distribution of temperature for the week and its variation from the normal are seen in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given. It will be seen from these figures that temperature has been rather largely in excess both during the day and during the night:—

Rainfall.—Skies have been slightly clouded during the whole week, but rain has been almost entirely absent, the only showers reported being a few in East Bengal, and in the neighbourhood of Calcutta in the early part of the week. A fall of ·1 inch occurred at Darjeeling on the 27th, but no further fall was caused by the depression which existed in North Bengal on Wednesday. Rainfall for the week has been everywhere largely in defect. In fact the only districts which show an appreciable average rainfall are South-West and East Bengal, but even here the amounts do not average more than a few hundredths of an inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 29th of March 1889 :—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

SANITARY.

The 22nd March 1889.

NOTIFICATION.

The following translation of the special Regulations of the Ottoman Board of Health applicable to the Mecca pilgrimage of 1889, received through Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information :—

Special Regulations applicable to the Mecca Pilgrimage of 1889.

Article 1.—From the beginning of the month of Redjeb until the end of the month of Zilhidjé (4th March to end of August), the Lazaretto of Camaran will be open to arrivals by sea subject to quarantine.

Article 2.—During the period of six months above-mentioned (Redjeb, Chaban, Rémazan, Chewal, Zilcadé, Zilhidjé) pilgrim ships arriving from outside the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb, no matter what the tenor of their Bill of Health, must go direct to the Island of Camaran without touching at any other port of the Red Sea coasts.

Article 3.—Pilgrim ships are ships expressly chartered for the conveyance of pilgrims going to Mecca.

Article 4.—Vessels bound to the Red Sea having on board only one pilgrim for every 100 tons of registered tonnage are not included in the definition of pilgrim ships. Such vessels will be dealt with according to the character of their Bills of Health, conformably to the provisions of the General Regulation of 1867, applicable to cases of cholera.

Article 5.—Mail boats and vessels not carrying more than five pilgrims for every 100 tons register, can proceed to Abou-Saad, where they will discharge, subject to quarantine, their pilgrims and merchandise destined for the Hedjaz.

Merchandise not destined for Yemen can be landed at Hodeyda under the supervision of the Sanitary authorities.

Article 6.—For this purpose a Lazaretto is established at Abou-Saad as a branch of the Camaran Lazaretto, which will be open to arrivals specified in articles 4 and 5 of the present regulation throughout the year.

Article 7.—Arrivals from Egyptian ports, Sambouks, and other coasters, navigating from one port to another of the Red Sea coast, will also perform quarantine at Abou-Saad in case of necessity.

Article 8.—Indo-Malayan pilgrims who come to the Hedjaz viâ Suez will be subjected to quarantine unless they can prove by their passports that they have come from beyond the Suez Canal.

Captains of ships are forbidden to embark pilgrims of this class under penalty of their ships and the crews being subjected to quarantine under Articles 2, 4, and 5 of these Regulations.

Article 9.—On the arrival of a pilgrim ship in Camaran Harbour, or Abou-Saad, all pilgrims will be disembarked and undergo the usual medical examination. If the health of the ship is good, and no suspicious case has occurred on the voyage, the ship and the pilgrims will undergo five full days' quarantine; baggage and effects will be disinfected, the ship will be washed and purified, but the cargo will not be landed nor purified nor taxed.

Article 10.—Pilgrim ships which arrive from infected ports, but have had no cholera case during the voyage or after arrival, will undergo a quarantine of ten days. Merchandise coming from a cholera-infected port will remain on board the ship, if there have been no cholera cases during the voyage or after arrival, but will be exempt from disinfection and from sanitary fees, except in the case of old personal effects and stuffs already used, unwashed wool, old cottons, hair and feathers, raw skins and hides and other raw animal remains and rags.

Article 11.—Ships upon which cases of cholera or suspicious cases have occurred during the voyage, or after arrival, will be subjected, ships and pilgrims, to a quarantine of at least 15 days. This quarantine will be renewed each time a cholera case occurs among crew or passengers after their arrival in Lazaretto, and will date from the day of the last case of sickness. In such cases the clauses in the Regulation of 1867 for cholera will be strictly applied.

Article 12.—No pilgrim ship shall leave Camaran for good without having re-shipped at the expiration of the quarantine all the pilgrims brought by her. Vessels which have completed their quarantine without cholera cases or suspected cases among the crew shall have a right to free pratique.

Article 13.—Sambouks coming from outside Cape Bab-el-Mandeb with pilgrims will be subject to the same rules as vessels specially chartered for pilgrims. They must go direct to Camaran, and will be refused admission at all other Arabian ports of the Red Sea.

Vessels coming from Bassora, with pilgrims on board bound for the Hedjaz, will have to go to Camaran, and will be treated according to the tenor of their Bill of Health and the general Regulations of 1867.

The same exceptional treatment is applicable to arrivals from Muscat, Zanzibar, and Bushire, provided such vessels are furnished with a regular Bill of Health indicating a good sanitary condition of the port of departure, and also if they have not touched at any intermediate port in the course of the voyage.

Read at the Board of Health and approved at the sitting of the 26th December 1888.

No. I OF 1889.

THE PRIVATE FISHERIES BILL.

CONTENTS.

SECTIONS.

No. I OF 1889.

A Bill for the protection of the right of fishing in private waters.

Interpretation clause.

2. In this Act—

"Fish."

"Fish" includes shell fish and turtles.

"Private waters."

"Private waters" means any waters which are private property, or in which any person is entitled to an exclusive right of fishery, and in which fish are not confined but have means of ingress and egress.

"Fixed engine."

"Fixed engine" means any net or other implement for taking fish, fixed in the soil or made stationary in any other way, not being a fishing weir.

Penalties.

3. Any person who commits any of the following offences :—

(1) fishes in any private waters not having a right to fish therein :

(2) erects places, maintains or uses any fixed obstruction or fixed engine in private waters, or puts, or knowingly permits to be put therein, any matter for the purpose of facilitating the catching or destroying of fish without the permission of the owner of such private fishery or the person to whom the right of fishing therein belongs:

shall be punished for a first offence with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees; and for a subsequent offence with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, or with a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, or both.

4. Whoever enters upon the land in the possession of another or upon private waters with intent to commit any of the offences specified in the last preceding section, shall be punished with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

Offences under the Act considered "cognizable offences."

6. Any obstruction or engine erected, placed maintained or used in contravention of section three, and any fish taken by means of such obstruction or engine, or by putting in such matter as therein mentioned, may be seized, and shall thereupon become the property of the owner of such private waters, or the person having a right of fishing therein, and such obstruction or engine may be taken possession of by such owner or person aforesaid, or such person as he may appoint in that behalf.

Forfeiture of obstruction.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to constitute the infringement of private rights of fishery an offence, to render a trespass for the purposes of such infringement also an offence, and to provide for punishment in respect of the unlawful use of contrivances for the purpose of taking fish.

2. The reason for legislative interference is that, under the existing law, private rights of fishery are not effectively or sufficiently protected.

THE POLICE SUPERANNUATION FUNDS BILL.

CONTENTS.

SECTIONS.

No. II OF 1889.

A Bill to consolidate the Calcutta and the Suburban Police Superannuation Funds.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate the Calcutta Police Superannuation Fund constituted under section 16 of Bengal Act IV of 1866 (the Calcutta Police Act, 1866), and the Suburban Police Superannuation Fund constituted under section 10 of Bengal Act II of 1866 (an Act to provide for the better regulation of the Police within the Suburbs of the Town of Calcutta): It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

1. Section 16 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 10 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866, from the words "and shall be applied" to the end of the said sections, respectively, are hereby repealed.

Amendment of section 16 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 10 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866.

2. The Police Superannuation Funds, constituted respectively under section 16 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 10 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866, shall be consolidated, and shall form one Police Superannuation Fund; and shall be applied from time to time to the payment of the charges incurred in the control and management of the said fund, and of such superannuation or retiring allowances or gratuities as may be ordered by the Local Government at any time to any Police Officer of the Calcutta or Suburban Police Force or to any person employed as a clerk to manage the said fund:

Consolidation of Police Superannuation Funds.

Provided that any such Police Officer or clerk may be dismissed or removed without a superannuation allowance; and that no such Police Officer or clerk shall be entitled as of right to any allowance from the said Fund, or shall retain any right to a refund of any deduction made from his pay while employed as such Police Officer or clerk.

3. Section 17 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 11 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866, are hereby repealed.

Repeal of section 17 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1866, and section 11 of Act II (B.C.) of 1866.

4. All sums accruing from stoppages from Police Officers of the Calcutta or Suburban Police Force during absence from sickness or other cause, and fines imposed on such Police Officers for misconduct, and from fines imposed by Magistrates upon drunken persons, or for assaults upon such Police Officers; and all moneys arising from the sale of worn or cast-off clothing or other articles supplied for the use of such members, shall be credited to the Police Superannuation Fund, or to such other Police Fund as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Proceeds from fines, &c., to be credited to Police Superannuation Fund, or such other Fund as the Local Government may direct.

5. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules to regulate the granting of pensions and gratuities out of the said Fund.

Local Government may make rules for granting pensions and gratuities.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Superannuation Funds for the Police Force of the Town and the Police Force of the Suburbs are at present distinct, and the former is in a flourishing financial condition, while the latter is clearly not solvent. This has been brought about by causes which indicate that the burdens of the one fund have in many cases been thrown upon the other, that for executive purposes the two forces have often been treated as one, and that it would be an act of substantial justice to consolidate the two funds.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

ACT V (B.C.) of 1870, which established the Corporation of the Commissioners for making improvements in the Port of Calcutta, has been supplemented by a number of amending enactments, till there are now on the statute-book not less than nine láws dealing with the Calcutta Port Trust. It is thought desirable that these scattered Acts should be consolidated, and that the opportunity should be taken to introduce some further amendments into the law. The present number of 13 Commissioners has been found inconveniently small, and it is proposed to increase the number to 15, of whom two must be natives of India, and to provide for the election of one of the additional Commissioners by the representatives of the native mercantile community. It also appears expedient that the permanent officials of the Port Trust, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, should not be appointed, like the other Commissioners, for a term of two years only, but should continue to hold office till their successors are appointed. Some obsolete sections of the present Acts have been omitted: the rules relating to the preparation and submission of the budget estimates have been revised: provision has been made for the grant of pensions to the Commissioners' employés: the powers and duties of the Port Police have been defined: and the liability which attaches to the Commissioners, in respect of goods left on their premises or under their charge, has been more clearly explained. With these objects the present Bill has been prepared.

No. IV OF 1889.

THE EMIGRANTS' SANITATION BILL.

CONTENTS.

SECTIONS.

No. IV OF 1889.

A Bill to provide for the sanitation of Emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour districts in Assam.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is provided in section seven of the Inland Emigration Act, 1882, that, subject to the provisions of section five of that Act, nothing in the Act is to be deemed to prohibit any native of India from emigrating to any of the labour districts otherwise than under the provisions of the Act;

And whereas natives of India emigrate in large numbers to the labour-districts otherwise than under those provisions;

And whereas in the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal great sickness and mortality have occurred among such emigrants on their way to the labour-districts;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement of Act.

1. This Act may be called the "Inland Emigrants' Health Act, 1889";

(2) It extends to the whole of the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and

(3) It shall come into force on the day on which it is published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Agent."

"Agent" means a person who engages or assists a native of India to emigrate otherwise than under the provisions of the Inland Emigration Act, 1882.

"Dependent."

"Dependent" means any woman (not being herself an emigrant), child, or aged or incapacitated relative or friend, accompanying an emigrant with the consent of the agent.

"Emigrant."

"Emigrant" means a native of India engaged or assisted by an agent so to emigrate.

"Emigrate."

"Emigrate" denotes the departure of any native of India of the age of sixteen years or upwards (other than a native of any of the labour-districts) from any part of India for the purpose of labouring for hire in any of the labour-districts otherwise than as a domestic servant.

"Labour-districts."

"Labour-districts" means the districts of Lakhimpur, Sibságar, Nowgong, Darrang, Kámrúp, Goálpára, Khási Hills, Cachar and Sylhet in the Chief Commissionership of Assam.

Power to make rules for protection in Bengal of the health of emigrants on their way to Assam

3. The Local Government may from time to time make rules with respect to any of the following matters, namely—

(a) the routes by which emigrants and their dependents are to travel on their way to any of the labour-districts;

(b) the depôts and rest-houses to be provided by, and at the cost of, agents for the accommodation of emigrants and their dependents on or off such routes, and the sanitation and superintendence of such depôts and rest-houses;

(c) the mode, and the numerical strength of the parties, in which emigrants and their dependents are to travel, the arrangements to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for facilitating their journey, the length of their daily marches by road, and the provision to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for the carriage of women and dependents and of emigrants suffering from sickness;

(d) the food to be supplied to emigrants and their dependents by, and at the cost of, agents, and the provision to be made by, and at the cost of, agents for the proper cooking of such food;

(e) the water-supply to be maintained by, or at the cost of, agents for the use of emigrants and their dependents;

(f) the clothing to be supplied to emigrants and their dependents by, and at the cost of, agents;

(g) the hospital accommodation, medical treatment and maintenance to be provided by, or at the cost of, agents for emigrants or their dependents suffering from sickness on their way to any of the labour districts, and the arrangements to be so made, and maintenance so provided, for any emigrant and his dependents where either he or any of them is so suffering;

(h) the disposal of dead bodies of emigrants and their dependents at the cost of agents;

(i) the powers of entry and inspection which may be exercised for the purposes of any rule under this clause, and the authorities by whom those powers may be exercised;

(j) the mode of compelling agents to discharge their liabilities under any rule under this clause; and,

(k) generally, the giving effect to the purposes of this Act.

(2) In making any rule under this section, the Local Government may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

(3) If a rule under this section authorises an officer of the Government to expend any public money in the event of default on the part of an agent to comply with any rule under that section, the money, together with simple interest thereon at the rate of six per cent. yearly, shall be recoverable from the agent under the provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1889.

(4) Nothing in the last foregoing clause shall be construed to bar a prosecution for any breach of a rule where the breach thereof has been made punishable in pursuance of the power conferred by clause (2) of this section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Inland Emigration Act of 1882, following in this respect the tenour of the law previously in force, makes ample provision for the sanitary arrangements connected with "labourers" on their way to Assam; but little benefit results, because the definition of "labourer" given in the Act is so restricted that it does not, under existing circumstances, apply to the majority of the emigrants during their journey through Bengal. The term is limited to persons who have executed labour contracts—a proceeding now very generally deferred until the emigrants have arrived at their destination, or at least until they have passed beyond the confines of Bengal. The expediency of permitting contracts under the Act to be postponed to so late a stage is under consideration, but meanwhile it is urgently necessary to provide for the sanitary supervision of emigrants on their journey, and particularly for the inspection of the lodging-houses and depôts in which they are detained. This has been done in the present Bill by giving to the Lieutenant-Governor power to make rules for the sanitary protection of all emigrants, similar to those which he exercises under Act I of 1882 in regard to "labourers."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE cemeteries and burial-grounds in the neighbourhood of Calcutta have hitherto been under no adequate control or supervision. This especially applies to the public cemeteries in which large numbers are annually interred, without adequate precautions against using the same ground too frequently, or against other insanitary arrangements. A Committee largely composed of Mohammedan gentlemen has recommended the creation of a Mohammedan Burial Board constituted on the same general lines as the Christian Burial Board, as the best remedy for these evils.

2. It is proposed to vest it with powers to make rules for the management of public Mohammedan burial-grounds, a list of which is contained in the Schedule, and to authorize it to charge fees, not exceeding a maximum scale to be introduced into the Act, for the main tenance of these cemeteries. Power is also given to take over other cemeteries so as to provide for the wants of the Mohammedan community, which are in excess of the ground now available for the use of the public.

STATEMENT OF THE COURSE OF LEGISLATION.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I believe I am following the usual course in making a brief statement regarding the course of legislation which I think should be laid before the Council. I ought to begin by apologising to you for calling you together at this late period of the Session, at the end of March, with five Bills on the list, when you have been attending here without having any work to do in the way of legislation during the whole of the cold weather. But circumstances connected with the Bills have put me in such a position during the whole of these months that I had absolutely no Bill which I could bring before you, and every one of these Bills, as it happened, has been returned to me by the Government of India only within the last week. In the case of some of them this was due to the rule, with which you are all probably acquainted, that those Bills which have to be sent home to the Secretary of State have to remain in abeyance a couple of months in order to give him an opportunity of expressing any views he might have, with power, in case no reply comes from him within that time, to proceed to legislation. In reference to others there has been a continuous correspondence with the Government of India, and the shape legislation ought to take has only been practically settled within the last week or two. That, gentlemen, is my explanation and apology, but at the same time I must express my regret that I have called you together at the hottest period of the year to ask you to undertake the work of going on with these Bills.

"I may as well deal with the Bills one by one and explain, as far as I can, what my own personal views are as to the progress which we are likely, or which we ought to, make in regard to them. The first Bill on the list is in the hands of the Advocate-General, and it is a Bill for the protection of the rights of fishing in private fisheries. The history of this Bill I propose to give at some little greater length than in regard to the others, as it is one of some considerable importance. It had its origin in a memorial which was sent up to the Government of Bengal last year by the British Indian Association, supported, besides, by a numerous and influential body of zemindars, both European and Native, outside that Association. The memorial was to the effect that an exclusive right in fisheries had always been possessed by zemindars, and the income from these exclusive rights were included in their assets on which the permanent settlement was assessed and on which revenue was levied; but that these exclusive rights which they had always been in the habit of freely exercising, and from which they derived a very considerable income, were now jeopardised by a series of decisions of the courts—decisions which, though they may not have changed the law, yet brought into prominence a reading of the law which left the zemindars without adequate protection, and in consequence of which the memorialists desire that the Government should legislate with the view of securing their rights. On receiving the memorial the Government of Bengal referred it to the Board of Revenue, with the view, if possible, of getting reliable figures to give something like an adequate idea of the value of the interests to be protected. The result of that reference has not been altogether satisfactory as far as getting anything like correct figures is concerned. But it had this effect that we have been able to obtain both from the Board of Revenue and the other officers consulted, who were the leading Commissioners of Divisions, very decided views as to the exceeding importance of the interests to be protected and the absolute necessity of doing something to protect them. I shall not attempt to go into details in regard to the legal aspects of the case, as these will be laid before you in a very much more efficient way by the Advocate-General; but, briefly put, I may say that whereas the opinion ordinarily held, doubtless by the outside public and certainly by many officers of the Government, was that in private fisheries of all kinds any one taking fish without permission might be punished, yet these decisions made it perfectly clear that that view was an incorrect one, that except where the fish might be enclosed in a tank or other water, in which there was no outlet to enable them to escape, there was no possession such as would enable the person who took them unlawfully, to be punished for theft or criminal trespass. The meaning of that was that there was no punishment or remedy to be found in the criminal courts. Of course no wrong was without its remedy, and people might go if they liked to the civil courts, but I need not tell you that the idea of referring people to the civil courts for their remedy in a case where their fish had been stolen was more than a mockery. It was under these circumstances that the memorialists addressed us. I shall read just one or two paragraphs from the memorial.

'The result of these decisions, however correct they may be in law, has been to put in imminent jeopardy the rights of landholders and of the Government to fisheries in waters in communication with tidal streams and navigable rivers which, as above shown, are most valuable rights. An impression has gained ground in certain districts that where a julkur is not enclosed, the landholder has no right to the fish, and landholders' complaints of wrongful abstraction of fish from julkurs situated within their estates have since been generally dismissed.

'Your memorialists humbly insist that the right of landholders to julkurs situated within their estates and talooks, whether in the form of enclosed tanks, running streams, or large jheels and bheels in communication with tidal rivers, is unquestionable, and has been recognized in a long series of decisions.

'This right was recognized by the Mohammedan rulers of the country; and the British Government, in making a permanent settlement of the land revenue of these provinces, expressly incorporated in that settlement the rents and profits realizable from this description of property.'

"They go on afterwards to say—

'It would be worse than useless for private landholders, or even for the Government to endeavour to protect their rights by bringing civil suits against persons infringing rights of fishery by unlawfully taking fish, and your memorialists respectfully urge that it is imperatively necessary for the protection of these rights that such persons should be punishable summarily under the criminal law.

'It has been ably argued, and with much learning, that the taking of fish under such circumstances is not theft; but however that may be, it has generally, as shown above, been looked upon and treated as theft in this country, and your memorialists are convinced that no punishment, short of the punishment of theft, will be sufficient to deter offenders and afford adequate protection to the rights of your memorialists and of the Government.'

"After hearing from the Board of Revenue and the local authorities on the subject, the Government of Bengal applied to the Government of India recommending legislation. That Government assented and asked that the draft Bill be sent up to them. The grounds on which we made our recommendations were these:—

'There can be little doubt, therefore, that the value of julkur property will be seriously impaired, if not altogether destroyed, when the real state of the law becomes generally known and when the mass of the people realize that violation of julkur rights is not a criminal offence; for the people likely to commit such violations belong to the poorest classes, and it would be mere waste of money to sue them in the civil court. The result is that proprietors and lessees of julkurs have practically no remedy when their rights are attacked.

'The zemindars are clearly entitled on equitable grounds to ask that Government should provide adequate protection for property, from which it derives a considerable revenue, and the special character of which has been recognized throughout the entire period of our rule in India The argument from expediency is equally strong. There can be no doubt that, when the state of the law gets generally known, there will be constant attempts made everywhere to fish in private fisheries without the consent of the owners. The landholding classes, if they find that the law does not afford them adequate protection in such cases, will take other means to protect right to which they attach great value, and there will certainly be many cases in which violence will be used on one or both sides if the law is left as at present. The economic argument is also not without considerable weight, that unless these rights are protected, there will be a serious diminution in the fish supply, owing to the wanton destruction and waste of fish which will result. From this point of view, the promiscuous killing of fish by a crowd of persons is much to be deprecated; for while the benefit to the poorer classes could only be temporary, it would certainly be purchased at the cost of a diminution of the fish supply in the future.'

"The Bill was sent on to the Government of India, with a suggestion on my part that, as probably the same difficulties would be found in other provinces besides Bengal, the Government of India themselves might be willing to legislate on the subject in the Viceroy's Council, but upon that point their reply was in the negative, as the peculiar state of circumstances existed principally in Bengal and Assam. They, therefore, recommend that legislation should be undertaken in this Council. The Advocate-General will tell you what the details of the Bill are, but the punishment provided is very lenient, as for the first offence a fine of Rs. 50 will be inflicted, and for subsequent offences imprisonment for one month and a fine of Rs. 200. I do not think there will be much difference of opinion as to the propriety of this legislation on principle, but I have no doubt there will be certain difficulties with regard to the definition of private fisheries, and it is to this point that the Select Committee will have to devote considerable attention. The Bill, I trust, will be brought in next Saturday and referred to a Select Committee. Its subsequent progress will of course depend upon the view the Select Committee will take of it. The question is one of some importance, and the sooner protection can be given to the zemindar, I think you will all agree, the better. So much for the Private Fisheries Bill.

"The next is a Bill 'to consolidate the Calcutta and Suburban Police Superannuation Funds.' This is a small technical matter, which Sir Henry Harrison will explain to you, and on which I need not dwell.

"The next Bill is one of more considerable importance. It is in its inception a purely consolidating Bill to bring into one form or Act the law which at present runs through several, and opportunity will be taken to make several alterations and changes. There has been considerable discussion as to whether a considerable alteration should not be effected in the financial position of the Port Commissioners; but this having been negatively decided by the Government of India, the changes really made in a substantive part of the law are not very considerable. This Bill will also be referred to a Select Committee next Saturday, but its future progress is not a matter of immediate urgency, and I shall not urge you to press on with it beyond what the Select Committee thinks fit to advise.

"The next Bill 'for the appointment of a Mohammedan Burial Board in Calcutta' is the outcome of the enquiries and cogitations of a Committee appointed last year to take into consideration the bad state of the many Mohammedan burial-grounds and the difficulties that are to be met with in controlling and in finding more room for the burial of Mohammedans in new burial-grounds. The Committee was a very strong one, for it had representatives of the Mohammedan community as well as officers of the Government and Municipality in it, and their recommendations have been embodied in this Bill which Sir Henry Harrison will explain to you.

"The last Bill is one which I shall have to explain to you at a later period of this morning's business. I may say now that it had its origin in a serious outbreak of cholera last year, in which nearly 600 coolie emigrants to Assam died, and which led to the Local Government putting an end altogether to coolie emigration from some of the labour districts. I will reserve further details till I ask for leave to introduce it; but I wish only to mention now that I look upon this Bill as the most urgent one we have on our list, because the cholera season is now on, and if anything at all is to be done it should be done quickly.

"I have only one thing more to say, and it is a subject which I approach with great regret. It is to inform you that this is the last day on which I believe we shall have the advantage of the mature counsel and experience of my hon'ble friend Mr. Reynolds, who has sat so long in this Council and has assisted it so ably. I am quite sure I am expressing not only my own views, but the feeling of all the Members of the Council in saying that it is with extreme regret we look to his departure, and both this Council and the Government generally will feel the severance of his connection as a severe loss to the public."

PRIVATE FISHERIES BILL.

The Hon'ble the Advocate-General moved for leave to introduce a Bill for the protection of the right of fishing in private fisheries. He said:—

"Private rights of fishery as opposed to public rights of fishery may be broadly classed under the following heads: the right of fishing in navigable rivers granted by the Government to private individuals. Rights of this description have been granted according to the law of this country, but have been discontinued since 1868. Secondly, the right of fishing in Government estates granted to private individuals; and thirdly, rights of fishery granted to zemindars on the assessment of revenue which they continue to pay. Civil suits may, no doubt, be successfully maintained for the infringement of private rights of fishery, and where injuries are threatened, or often repeated, I believe the Civil Court would grant an injunction. The remedy by civil suits, however, is dilatory and expensive, and having regard to the class of persons, the poorer classes, who would be likely to infringe these private rights of fishery by fishing and taking fish, it may well be said that the remedy by civil suit would be a mere waste of money. Under these circumstances, it is evident that, in order to provide an effective remedy against the infringement of private rights, a remedy of a summary and coercive character should exist.

"On turning to the memorial of the British Indian Association, I find the following statement: "Under British rule, both before and after the passing of the Penal Code, Magistrates have been in the habit, in accordance with the popular view, of convicting of theft persons proved to have unlawfully taken fish," and I find the same view held by two officers of experience, one of whom is Mr. Smith, the Commissioner of the Presidency Division. In his letter of the 21st April, 1888, addressed to the Board of Revenue, he says :—

'To make the offence punishable as theft would be only to legalise what has been the uniform custom of the country until recent decisions have questioned the legality of the practice.'

"Mr. Lowis, Commissioner of the Rajshahye Division, in his letter of the 21st June, 1888, concurs in the same view of the matter. I have not been able to find that this was the law of this country at any time. I have not been able to discover a single case in the Nizamut Adawlut reports, and the Mohammedan law contains no provision constituting the taking of fish out of water which forms the subject of a private fishery a criminal offence. The reference made by the British Indian Association to the Hidaya in paragraph 2 of their letter does not touch the question.

That being so, I now turn to the decisions of the High Courts. These decisions have been carefully collected for the Bengal Government, and although most of them bear in the same direction, I shall merely refer to a few of them. In a case decided on 20th March, 1873, by Justices Kemp and Pontifex, it was held that the taking of fish from a public navigable river in which another has a right to fish is not theft, nor does the catching of fish in a navigable river render the person so doing liable to be convicted under the Penal Code. That case is reported in the 19th Vol. of the Weekly Reporter, Criminal Rulings, in page 47. I find in a Madras case of 23rd October, 1878, (Indian Law Reports, 5, Madras Series, 391, note) it was held that fish living in open irrigation tanks were not in possession in such a sense as to render their capture and removal a theft. In a Bombay case (Indian Law Reports, 10, Bombay, 193), where the accused were found fishing without permission in a municipal tank, it was held that they could be convicted of theft, as the tank from which the fish were taken was apparently an enclosed tank and the fish were therefore of restrained liberty and liable to be taken at any time according to the pleasure of the owner, and were therefore subjects of theft. Then a case came before Chief Justice Petheram and Mr. Justice Ghose, known as the Moherpore case, in which it was decided that fish in a bhil or natural lake was the property of no one, and until reduced into possession no property could be acquired by any one, and that the capture of such fish in a wild state could not be the subject of theft.

"Then there was another decision of the same two Judges in July 1887, affirming the same principle; and lastly, there were two decisions of Justices Norris and Ghose, to the effect that fish in a public river could not be said to be the property of the person who may have the fishery right, and that where a tank was dependent on the overflow of a neighbouring channel which was connected with flowing streams for its supply of fish, and that the fish could leave it at pleasure, the taking of fish from such tank was not theft. Now the first decision of the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Ghose in 1887 was a decision which broadly laid down that there could be no property in fish in a natural state and not restrained of liberty, and I would also point out that although in that case the fish were in a bhil, the bhil was fed by channels which communicated with natural streams on two sides. Were it assumed in that case that at the moment of time when the fish were captured the bhil resembled a tank having no communication at that time with other waters, no conviction for theft in respect of the taking of fish would have been sustainable at the instance of the complainant, who had merely a fishery right in such bhil, the bhil itself and the water it contained belonging probably to the zemindar.

"Now an elementary principle of English law was laid down thus:—

'There is a principle of our law which will be noticed more fully in its proper place that, in general, no man can make title to animals feræ naturæ, for these while they remain wild are accounted nullius in bonis (or what amounts to the same thing) as the common property of mankind.' (Stephen's Commentaries, page 684.)

"The Roman law was substantially the same. Sander's Institutes of Justinian, p. 96:—

'Wild beasts, birds, fish, that is, all animals which live either in the sea, the air, or on the earth, as soon as they are taken by any one, immediately become by the law of nations the property of the captor, for natural reason gives to the first captor that which had no previous owner. And it is immaterial whether a man takes wild beasts or birds upon his own ground or on that of another, &c.'

"Deducing a principle from the nature of the subject itself, it appears to me that the elementary principle of law to which I have referred is of general application, applicable to this country as elsewhere. The Judges who decided these cases in the High Courts merely applied an elementary principle of law of general application. And if I may be permitted to say so, I think their decisions are sound and accurate. The case decided by Justices Kemp and Pontifex in 1873 seemed to produce no alarm, nor was it, as far as I know, the subject of any hostile criticism. But the later decisions in the Meherpur case and in one or two other cases have been objected to, and have been assailed with considerable warmth. I am prepared to admit that the Judges of the High Courts are not infallible, but I think those who endeavour to impeach the decisions of the highest tribunals of this country and the opinions of Judges of experience should put forward a strong case. Such a case might be made by reference to decided cases which contravene the decisions objected to, or by challenging the principle on which the decisions are rested, or by showing that other acknowledged and well-recognised principles apply to the subject itself. Now, those who have made objections have done nothing of the kind. As far as decided cases go, there are absolutely none that could be brought forward. With regard to contravening the principle upon which the Chief Justice based his decision, I may say that the proposition is too elementary and too well-founded to be controverted. No attempt was made to show that any other well-recognised principle of law applied to the case. Under these circumstances the objections, as far as I am aware, resolve themselves into irrelevant arguments, vituperative assertions, and an array of words which exhibit a confusion of thought as to the meaning of "property" and "possession," and demonstrate nothing beyond a want of familiarity with the subject under consideration.

"The propositions which have been laid down by the High Courts are summarised ably and tersely by Mr. Edgar. He says in his letter of 6th September, 1888, as follows:—'The law relating to this subject, as gathered from the series of judicial decisions given in Mr. Beeby's note, may be summarised as follows:—

'There is no remedy under the criminal law in the case of the infringement of julkur rights, except where the fish are taken from an enclosed tank in which they had been restrained from their natural liberty. The fact of fish being in a public river does not make the fish in it the property of the person who has the fishery right in such river, and nobody can be said to be in possession of them, as they are feræ naturæ. The right of fishing is not properly of such a nature that a man who infringes it can be said to commit criminal trespass. Fish in a tank enclosed on all sides, but dependent upon the overflow of a neighbouring channel for its supply of fish, are not restrained of their natural liberty at a time when floods are high, and are consequently under such circumstances feræ naturæ, and their capture is not a criminal offence. Wild fish in a bhil are not the property of any person till caught, nor are fish in a creek or in an open tank made for the purposes of irrigation. On the other hand, it is theft to take fish from an enclosed tank where fish are restrained of their natural liberty and are liable to be taken at any time by the owner of the tank.'

"The decisions of the High Court having disposed of the question of taking fish otherwise than from an enclosed tank, and pronounced it not to be theft, it follows that there can be no criminal trespass, viz. trespass done with the view of committing a criminal offence. In the same way all notion of criminal misappropriation disappear, because there must be something appropriated which was the property of some one. There being no property in the fish, it follows that a charge of criminal misappropriation does not lie.

"His Honour the President has already referred to the memorial of the British Indian Association, which appears to me to state the case of the zemindars in a temperate spirit and to be supported by very fair reasoning, although I do not agree in some of the legal positions taken in it. This letter shows what I have adverted to, namely, that, in the present state of the law, there is no sufficient or efficient protection of private rights of fishery. It is therefore necessary that some coercive measure should be introduced by the Legislature for the protection of private rights of fishery; and that will be the object of the Bill I ask leave to introduce.

"The Bill will be a short one, and will be directed to three points, viz. to make the infringement of private rights of fishery punishable under the law, to make trespass penal under the same circumstances, and to prevent persons using contrivances and devices for the purpose of catching fish which they have no right to take. I think the Bill will be sufficient to effect the purposes in regard to which the British Indian Association has addressed the Government."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

POLICE SUPERANNUATION FUNDS BILL.

The HON'BLE SIR HENRY HARRISON moved for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate the Calcutta and the Suburban Police Superannuation Funds. He said:—

"As His Honour the President has already stated, this Bill is a small one. It merely amends one or two sections in the existing law, and I can briefly describe the object of it. The Police Forces of the town and suburbs are both under the Commissioner of Police, but by law they are separate forces, and the funds for providing pensions for the lower grades of officers and men for each of these two forces have hitherto been separate funds, but as a matter of fact the two forces have been practically very closely allied to one another. It is natural that the superior officers of the Police have availed themselves sometimes of the services of the town police in the suburbs and vice versâ, and transfers of officers and men between the two forces have been frequent. Some time ago it was found that of the two Police Superannuation Funds, that of the town was apparently quite solvent, while that of the suburbs was falling into a state of insolvency. In a letter which I as Commissioner of Police addressed to the Government in 1886, I pointed out the condition of the two funds, and the reasons for the conditions in which they respectively were. The reason for the different conditions of the two funds was this, that every policeman drew his pension or gratuity from the fund of the Force to which he was attached at the time of his retirement, irrespective of the Force in which his services had been performed. It would probably have been more strictly correct if his services in each force had been counted up, and the pension or gratuity were drawn from the two funds in proportion to the term of his service in each Force. It had been assumed that there would be an equal quantity of give and take, but that had not been the case. In the suburbs the men were more unhealthy, and there was a larger proportion of retirements, and hence while the men drawing pensions from the Town Fund were only a fraction exceeding four per cent., those from the suburbs were more than nine per cent., and the gratuities paid were somewhat in the same proportion. It was pointed out that the fairest course would be to treat the two Forces in law, as they were in fact, as one and the same Force, and to amalgamate the two Superannuation Funds. I think satisfactory reasons have been adduced to show that this would involve no practical injustice to either Force, and after considerable correspondence between the Government of Bengal and the Government of India, it was finally decided that that was the proper course to adopt. The object of the present Bill was simply to unite and amalgamate the two Police Superannuation Funds."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CALCUTTA PORT BILL.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Port Trust of Calcutta. He said:—

"The Calcutta Port Trust is a Corporation which has not yet attained to the age of legal majority. It was established, as the Council is probably aware, under Act V of 1870, and is consequently 19 years of age. But if it is an infant, it is a thriving and vigorous one. No one who remembers the condition of the river foreshore 20 years ago can refuse to the Port Commissioners the right to indulge a feeling of pardonable pride in the improvements they have effected. The reclamation of the river banks, the jetties, the tramway, the tea warehouse, the petroleum depôt, the improved light-ships, the admirable charts of the river which have been issued, are all monuments of the energy and success with which the Port Commissioners have discharged the duties entrusted to them. They are now engaged upon the greatest work they have yet taken in hand—the construction of the docks at Kidderpore. This work is making excellent progress, and it may be confidently anticipated that it will prove a great financial and commercial success. The operations of the Port Commissioners have not been confined to the Calcutta side of the river, for on the Howrah side they have reclaimed a large tract of land, and have made an excellent road along the foreshore. And all these improvements have been effected not only without any addition to the charges upon trade, but with an actual lightening of them. Calcutta from its geographical position can never be a cheap port, the fees for pilotage and towage must always handicap this port when compared with Bombay, but the Port Commissioners have been able to reduce the pilotage charges, and to do away altogether with the port dues which were formerly levied. As a port due produces about Rs. 80,000 for each anna of the rate, the abolition of a four annas port due implies a relief to the shipping to the extent of about three-and-a-quarter lakhs per annum.

"Honour should be given where honour is due; and I therefore think it right to say that the success which has attended the administration of the Commissioners has been largely due to two individuals: to their first Chairman, Mr. Schalch, who laid down the lines of policy which the Commissioners have steadily followed, and to Mr. Duff Bruce, who was for 17 years the Vice-Chairman and Engineer of the Port Trust. But in bringing out these two names for special mention, I ought to add that their efforts would have had little result if they and their successors had not enjoyed (as I am happy to say they have enjoyed) the confidence and the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and of the mercantile community in general. Mr. Schalch may have been the head, and Mr. Bruce the right hand, but the backbone of the Port Trust is, and always has been, the Chamber of Commerce.

"The legislative charter of the Port Trust is Act V of 1870, but this Act was necessarily of a somewhat tentative character, as the establishment of a Port Trust in Calcutta was at first of the nature of an experiment. The experiment had been tried in another form by Act X of 1866, which vested the management of the Port in a Committee of the Calcutta Justices. The experiment in this form proved a failure, and hence it was natural that the Act of 1870 should have been somewhat cautiously worded, and should have contained various restrictions. But as the duties and responsibilities of the Commissioners increased, and their administration was shown to be successful, the original Act of 1870 was supplemented by a number of amending Acts, all of which were in the direction of extending the powers conferred on the Commissioners. The most important of these are Act IV of 1880, which deals with the borrowing powers of the Commissioners; Act II of 1885, which authorized the construction of the Kidderpore Docks; and Act III of 1887, which introduced the elective principle into the constitution of the Trust.

"The result is that now we have altogether nine Acts dealing with the Port Trust of Calcutta, and I believe the Council will agree that the time has come when it is advisable, and indeed necessary, that these Acts should be consolidated. The Bill, as I have said, is in the main a consolidating measure, but occasion has been taken to introduce some amendments. I need not at this stage of the Bill go into details, but I should like to call attention to one or two of the more salient provisions of the Bill. I would first ask attention to the title of the Bill which in itself is an acknowledgment of the good work which the Port Commissioners have done. The title of this Bill is to be 'The Calcutta Port Act, 1889.' The title of Act V of 1870 is 'An Act to appoint Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta.' The improvements contemplated by that Act have now for the greater part been made, and the main duty of the Port Commissioners in future would not be to make improvements, but to manage and administer a port which has already been improved. The first Chapter of the Bill relates to the constitution of the Port Commissioners, the number of whom it is now proposed to increase. I may remind the Council that by the original Act nine Commissioners were appointed, but it was very soon found necessary to raise the number to 12, and in 1881 it was raised to 13, with the object of adding a member to represent Howrah. In the Act of 1887 the number was still kept at 13, but it was enacted that two of the Commissioners should be natives. By that Act four of the Commissioners were to be appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, one by the Trades' Association, and one by the Calcutta Municipality; that made six; and seven were to be appointed by the Government, so that unless some of the elected members were natives, two of the number appointed by the Government must be natives. That restricted the choice of the Government to a very small number of persons, and it was desirable that the Port Trust should contain some one representing the Marine Department and also some representative of the Railways. Under this Bill it was proposed to increase the number to 15, consisting of a Chairman, a Vice-Chairman, seven elected members and six nominated members, and it was still provided that not less than two of the members should be natives. Of the seven elected members, four were to be elected as now by the Chamber of Commerce, one by the Trades' Association and one by the Municipal Commissioners of the town, and the seventh was to be elected by such body or bodies or firms representing the native mercantile houses, as the Lieutenant-Governor might direct. The Council would remember that this proposal was brought forward when the Act of 1887 was under discussion, but it was not then thought that the time had come for introducing a provision of the kind. The only other change proposed in the constitution of the Trust was the section which proposed that the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman should not vacate their offices at the end of two years, like the other Commissioners, who were appointed or elected, but should continue to hold office during the pleasure of the Government. The next Chapter of the Bill dealt with the borrowing powers of the Commissioners, and here no material changes were proposed. The debt of the Port Trust at present might be classified under four heads. First, there was the item of Rs. 17,65,000, which represented the value of the block made over to the Port Commissioners by the Government when the Trust was established in 1870. The principal of that amount was not repayable, but only interest at 4½ per cent. payable half-yearly. The second item was the amount of the unliquidated portion of the sum advanced by the Government to the Port Trust between the years 1870 and 1880, and which is being repaid by a sinking fund, under which the whole amount will be repaid in 30 years; the present amount was about 40 or 42 lakhs. The third item consisted of the public loans which had been raised, of which there were three, aggregating 60 lakhs. These were secured by debentures, which would be repaid at the end of 30 years. And the fourth item consisted of advances made by the Government for the construction of the Kidderpore Docks, the amount expended up to the present time being about 125 lakhs. The Bill proposed that the amounts due under these several heads by the Port Commissioners should be secured on the entire property and income of the Trust, that principle having been accepted when the Acts of 1880 and 1881 were passed. Some hon'ble members may recollect that when the Act of 1880 was passed, the wording of the Act was considered to be such that it gave to the Government and the Secretary of State some amount of advantage or preference for the recovery of the amount due to them as compared with the public creditor who might lend his money. How far that was really the case, I can hardly say. However, it was sufficient to make the raising of loans unsuccessful, and another Act was passed in 1881 making it perfectly clear that the Government and the Secretary of State would fall under the same category, and have the same rights, as any other creditor, and that was the principle adopted in framing this Bill.

"I do not think there is anything further of much importance that should be mentioned. A few provisions have been inserted in order to enable the Commissioners to give pensions to their servants and to define more clearly the position and duties of the River Police; also some sections relating to the mode of preparing the budget which would merely legalise the practice which has prevailed for many years, but which is not strictly in accordance with the letter of the previous Acts; and there was also a provision defining the liability of the Commissioners in respect of goods whilst in their custody."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MOHAMMEDAN BURIAL BOARD'S BILL.

The HON'BLE SIR HENRY HARRISON moved for leave to introduce a Bill to provide for the appointment of a Mohammedan Burial Board in Calcutta. He said:—

"As His Honour the President has already explained, this Bill is due to the report of a Committee which sat last year to inquire into the question of Mohammedan cemeteries. The Mohammedan community, as was well known, like the Christian community, disposed of their dead by burying, and as that community in and around Calcutta exceeds 200,000 souls, it was evident that the question of the burial of their dead was well worthy the attention of the Legislature. Hitherto, possibly owing to the wise policy of the Government to abstain to interfere as far as possible in all religious matters, no continuous action had been taken in regard to Mohammedan cemeteries, but the same cause which made the Government hold its hand had in fact paralysed the Mohammedan community, because they had no power to regulate the affairs of their own cemeteries, and it was quite in accordance with the wishes of that community that what I may call an enabling Act should be passed which would enable them by means of a Board of the Mohammedan community, assisted by some of the local officials, to control and regulate the affairs of their own public cemeteries. There are possibly over a hundred Mohammedan cemeteries of all kinds in Calcutta and the Suburbs. The greater portion of these are private cemeteries, and they are usually well looked after by their owners. But there are about twelve public Mohammedan cemeteries which are under no adequate control. The effect of the Bill would be that a Mohammedan Burial Board would be appointed which would have power to frame rules to control and regulate burials in these public cemeteries and charge fees, and though they would have a hard task before them, the effect would be very beneficial, as they would have the power not only to prescribe the conditions under which burials should take place, but also to extend the ground available for interment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EMIGRANTS' SANITATION BILL.

THE HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT moved for leave to introduce a Bill to provide for the sanitation of emigrants during their passage in Bengal to the labour districts in Assam. He said:—

"As I mentioned just now, the immediate urgency of this Bill is the serious outbreak of cholera which occurred last year, leading to more than 600 deaths among coolies, nearly all of whom were emigrants from certain districts. But that was not the only cause; and in order to explain the remoter reasons for the Bill, I shall have to go a little further back. You are all aware that, previous to the introduction of Act 1 of 1882, all emigration to Assam was controlled by the Government. It was penal to take or assist any coolies to emigrate except under certain specific restrictions. The recruiter who collected coolies was licensed, and before he was so licensed, enquiries were made into his character, and he was registered before a Magistrate, who knew where he could put his hand on him, and who also knew where he could put his hand on the contractor under whom he worked; and, similarly, the garden sirdar got his certificate from his employer, which certificate was registered before the Magistrate. Then, after the coolies were collected, they were taken to a depôt which was open to the Magistrate's inspection, and was subject to sanitary control. Whether the depôt was in Calcutta or elsewhere, it was constantly supervised and inspected. After being collected, the coolies were placed before the Magistrate of the district in which they were collected. They were detained there a short time by the Magistrate, and there they entered into contracts for labour. When this was done, they went up to Assam under the supervision either of a garden sirdar or of the contractor's people, and in any case they went along a specific route. They stopped at certain specified places where sanitary arrangements were made, they were inspected and looked after, and, where needed, medical services were secured by the Government. The man in charge had a way-bill with the names and numbers of the emigrants, so that they could be traced and enquiries made all along their route, and their sanitation, at all events, was carefully looked after. That was the state of the law until Act I of 1882 came in. That Act maintained the old system practically without alteration in regard to these coolies who were collected by garden sirdars and licensed recruiters, and by contractors who were registered. But simultaneously with that system Act I of 1882 allowed another system to grow up. The framers put in a new section, to say that nothing in this Act should interfere with coolies going up to Assam otherwise than under this Act. Unquestionably the framer of this Act looked forward to a number of free coolies finding their way to Assam, and who, when they got up there, could give their labour to whomever they chose, or, if they did not like to do so, could come back again, and who, to a certain extent, might take advantage of what is termed 'haggling in the market' for what wages they wanted. If the vista which rose before the view of the framers of the Act had been a real one, if what they foresaw had actually come to pass, and a number of free coolies had found their way up, it would have been pleasant for the coolies, it would have been pleasant for the Government, it would have been well for Assam, and it would have been the first step towards getting rid of a penal Act. But what did occur has been the reverse of what the framers of the Act expected. They wanted to get rid of middlemen, the recruiter and contractor, who collected these coolies. They wanted to get rid of these men, and also no doubt to get rid of the expenses which that system involved. But what has happened? The contractor remains, and he is neither licensed or known to the Magistrate; the recruiter remains, and he is not registered or licensed, and no enquiry into his character made; anybody can go about to do the business, and the natural result is that it has gravitated to the lowest and worst possible characters. The coolies collected under this system are 'free' coolies; they are lodged in the recruiter's depôt: this depôt is not inspected, nor is it under the Magistrate's control, and the coolies may be here to-day and in another place to-morrow. No one has power to supervise them. There is not that opportunity which the Magistrate ought to have of enquiring who the recruiters are, or who their coolies are, and to all intents and purposes they remain outside the control and supervision of the Act. There is no possibility of protection, and there is no sanitary regard for them. Thus they are at the mercy of the recruiters and sirdars, and when once collected they are carried off to Assam without any more sanitary supervision than that of any ordinary passengers.

"The difference between them and the ordinary passengers is that they go in hundreds and have to stay wherever the contractor's men wish to stay; they cannot easily escape, their communications with the outer world are, to a great extent, cut off, and if cholera breaks out among them they are helpless. As I said before, cholera broke out among them last year. Advice was asked for and was received from the Sanitary Commissioner and from the Superintendent of Inland Emigration. Under their advice the officers of Government used what powers they had to examine and control the sanitary condition of the depôts wherever they were found, and some arrangements were made by the Government railways for providing medical attendance and sanitary supervision of the coolies on their railways; but these executive arrangements had but little legal basis and were at the best insufficient, and ultimately the flow of emigration had to be stopped entirely both from Ranigunge and from Chota Nagpur. It was in July last that I addressed the Government of India on the subject. The sanitary condition of affairs was the urgent and immediate need; but I also took the opportunity, perhaps unfortunately, of suggesting that the matter of the registration and licensing of these middlemen and agents should be taken up and dealt with by the Legislature at the same time. The result of my bringing the two subjects together in the same letter, and recommending legislation on both of them, was that the question of the registration and supervision of middlemen, which necessitated unquestionably the alteration of Act I of 1882, was referred to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, and after some correspondence was postponed to be dealt with when the report of the Chief Commissioner should be received as to the working of the Act generally with the view of considering what alterations in Act I of 1882 were necessary. This discussion has practically taken up a good deal of the last part of the current year. In the meantime the sanitation part of the subject was for the time being postponed. Finally, I proposed that the Government of India might approve of a temporary Sanitary Act which might bring all middlemen taking free coolies to Assam under the same rules as those which now apply to garden sirdars and their recruits.

"I ought to have mentioned before that, whereas, two years after Act I of 1882 was passed, the number of coolies who went up the Brahmaputra valley under registration, that is to say, under the contract section of the Act, was about 13,000: the number of those who took advantage of the new section was in 1884 about the same number, viz., 12,000. Gradually, however, the free coolies, as they are called, as might be expected, gained very largely over the contract coolies, that is to say, the advantage of not being put under any supervising or controlling power, and of putting your coolies under contract on arrival at Dhubri instead of here in the district, is obviously found more convenient to those who collect coolies than to have them registered at the place of collection and carried on under the supervision and control of the Act; so that at the present day something like 85 per cent. of free coolies arrive not under the control of the law. During the last year the number of coolies recruited under the supervision section was 3,800, whereas the number of free coolies was 21,800; in other words, the free coolie system is rapidly displacing the other one, and I think I have sufficiently shown that all the conditions require them to be brought under sanitary supervision just as much as coolies under contract, and fully justify the measure which I ask for leave to bring in. As I have said, I sent up a suggestion to the Government of India this year for bringing them under the same rules as garden sirdar-coolies, and after a little consideration the reply from the Government of India was that this would involve a distinct alteration of Act I of 1882 which this Council is powerless to pass, and they suggested instead that the Bill should take another shape, that is, the shape in which it has been now drafted, which they assure me is within the scope of this Council. They have sent up a sketch of the Bill in order to show the shape which it might take without encroaching upon the special power reserved to the Viceroy's Council. The Bill really requires the Lieutenant-Governor to make rules for all necessary sanitation. I propose, if the necessary power of this kind is given me, to exercise it by merely taking the rules as they now exist with regard to garden sirdars, and by making the necessary alterations and bringing the two classes as closely as possible under the same sanitary supervision. The Bill does not go beyond sanitary supervision, and under the circumstances it is just as well it does not. I am very anxious that the whole subject should be very carefully considered, for if any general Bill is passed it must be passed in the Viceroy's Council, and not in this, but in the meantime I feel there is a very urgent and serious responsibility laying upon us not to allow the cholera season to pass without at least doing all in our power to check the grievous mortality and the sufferings to which I have alluded, and now it is my duty to ask you to assist me by allowing me to introduce the Bill which will be laid before you next week with the necessary papers on the subject."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 6th April, 1889.

WORKING OF THE INLAND EMIGRATION ACT, I OF 1882, IN CHITTAGONG.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—INLAND EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 3rd April, 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Memorandum No. 246GM—IX-5, dated the 9th March, 1889, from the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, and enclosed report from the Magistrate of Chittagong, on the working of the Inland Emigration Act I of 1882 during the year 1888.

The number of labourers employed under the Act in Chittagong, which has been decreasing for many years, fell during 1888 from 433 to 257, the diminution being due to the growing and laudable preference of employers for free labour. No coolies are entered as imported during the year, and only 82 executed local contracts. There were as many as 36 desertions with 13 cases of imprisonment, and the Magistrate of Chittagong states, in explanation of the large proportion which these figures bear to the return of labourers employed, that "the reasons for the unusual increase of the number of desertions, convictions of labourers, and cancelment of their contracts may be ascribed to the fact that a considerable number of free coolies struck on one large garden on which they had been living and working and went and executed local contracts with another employer, but afterwards they changed their mind and left the garden of the latter; according to him they were enticed away from him by their former master." The work of inspection was very inefficiently performed, and under the circumstances the statements in the report as to the good treatment of labourers must be taken as founded rather on the general knowledge of the Magistrate than on any special experience gained during the year. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that in Chittagong the small and diminishing minority of coolies bound by contracts under the Act are treated exactly as the free labourers with whom they work.

2. The report is of interest as being the last of its kind which will be submitted for a complete year in this Province, the system of statutory contracts having been abolished in Chittagong by order of Government, with effect from the first day of the current month. The present report affords further evidence that such an exceptional system is not necessary in that district, where the conditions of labour are not different from those prevailing in other parts of Bengal. The penal contracts, provided originally to meet the case of the importation of workmen from a distance at the cost of employers, appear to have been used of late to bind local labourers, occasionally obtained from a neighbouring garden, with a strictness altogether unnecessary, one result being that a considerable proportion of them (this year more than 5 per cent.) were sent to jail for offences unknown to the ordinary law. That no great advantage accrued to the employer from the system is suggested by the fact that 14 per cent. of the labourers under statutory contract deserted during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH 1889.

THE transition from the cold-weather conditions to those of the hot season in Bengal which usually commences at the close of February, becomes complete in March. The normal features of the meteorology of March are therefore rapidly increasing temperature, gradually decreasing pressure, a general increase in the air motion, winds becoming westerly at the inland stations and south-westerly at the southern stations, while the northerly component in the wind directions almost disappears except in Behar; the air is also generally very dry, skies are clear, and there is an almost complete absence of rain, unless the normal weather conditions are disturbed by the occurrence of the local storms known as nor'-westers. These storms are believed to be brought about by the interaction of the more or less opposing wind systems which obtain to a certain extent over Bengal in this month, for at the western stations, winds are strongly westerly, at the southern stations strong moist southerly winds usually blow, while easterly winds continue to blow down the Assam Valley, and sometimes penetrate as far as Purneah and Durbhunga. From the nature of the formation of these nor'-westers and their local character, the rainfall brought by them, which is sometimes decidedly heavy, is very irregularly distributed. Occasionally also the normal conditions in March are disturbed by the formation of depressions over Northern India, which extend and travel in a south-easterly direction, and give unsettled weather and perhaps rain to Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and North Bengal, but these barometric depressions are usually less numerous and less influential in character than they are in the previous cold-weather months.

By these irregular actions a moderate amount of rain is brought to Bengal during March. The normal rainfall is heaviest in East Bengal, where it averages about 2·8 inches. In South-West Bengal, North Bengal, and Orissa the fall ranges from about one to one and a half inches; in Chutia Nagpur it is rather less than an inch; while in Behar it is rather less than half an inch.

Meteorology of the month.—The chief features in the meteorology of March 1889 have been—

1. The mean pressure over the province of Bengal has been decidedly in excess of the normal, the excess averaging about 0·046 inch. This excess, though fairly equally distributed, has been generally largest at the western stations, where at Cuttack, Gya, and Hazaribagh it equals about 0·06 inch; while it has been comparatively small in South-East and South Bengal, where it equals about 0·04 inch. In Assam the mean excess pressure has been 0·045 inch, and here the excess is almost equal at all stations.

2. The average temperature of the whole province of Bengal has been 1·6° in excess of the normal, the largest excess temperatures being confined to the districts of Chutia Nagpur and South Behar. In Assam an average excess temperature of 2·2° was registered.

3. Humidity has been decidedly in excess of the normal in all districts, the excess being large in the south-western districts, where it has varied from about 12 to 15 per cent.

4. Cloud proportion has been decidedly larger than usual in Orissa and South-West and East Bengal, but it has been below it in Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

5. A slight disturbance or area of comparative barometric depression was formed at the commencement of the month over Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of the Central Provinces and North-West Provinces. This was the continuation of a shallow depression which had stretched from Upper Sind into the Central Provinces. The depression moved in an easterly direction and gave a series of thunderstorms with general rain in South-West and East Bengal, South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur on the first two or three days of the month, while a few showers fell in North Behar and North Bengal. Slightly disturbed conditions with rain again obtained in the hills and at the stations near them from the 13th to the 20th, and on the 21st and 22nd disturbed conditions existed in Orissa, South-West and East Bengal; but with the exception of these brief periods of disturbance, weather has been fine almost throughout the month. There has therefore been a comparative absence of storms of the two classes mentioned under the normal meteorology of the month.

6. Rainfall for the month has been consequently in decided defect in all districts. The fall in North Bengal has equalled about a tenth of the usual amount; in Orissa, East Bengal, and North Behar it has been about a fifth to a quarter of the usual quantity; in South-West Bengal about one-third; in Chutia Nagpur about one-half; while the largest comparative fall has occurred in South Behar, where it equals about three-fourths of the normal amount. For the whole province of Bengal the average fall is rather less than a third of the normal. In Assam heavy falls have occurred at Sibsagar and Silchar, but very little rain has fallen at Dhubri.

There are, therefore, no particular features in the meteorology of the month which require discussion. Slightly disturbed weather with a number of local storms prevailed in all except the northern districts of the province during the first two or three days. This was followed by period of about a fortnight, during which the hot-weather conditions steadily established themselves, though a few local storms of little or no importance were reported during this interval. Weather then became more disturbed by the passage of a shallow low-pressure area from Central India over North Bengal, and probably also over the hills; and from about the 16th to the 20th local storms were numerous over the north of the province. On the latter date a brisk fall of pressure caused a feeble depression to appear over North Behar and Bengal, and this was followed by the occurrence of a series of thunderstorms with rain. On the 20th the storms commenced in Chutia Nagpur; during the 24 hours following, storms were reported from the stations along the western portion of South-West Bengal, South Bengal, and Chittagong. Some of these storms were decidedly severe. Thus a rather severe storm occurred about 7-30 p. m. on the 20th at Hazaribagh; at 10-30 p. m. of the same day a severe storm was reported at Raniganje. A rather large storm passed to the west of Calcutta, moving in a south-earterly direction, at 8 a. m. of the 21st, while beween ten and eleven on the same day Saugor Island was visited by a rather severe storm accompanied by a strong westerly gale, during which wind velocity averaged 44 miles an hour, but which rapidly passed away. It is of course impossible to state with certainty that this was a single storm, but judging by the times at which these stations were visited by storms, it is quite possible that this was a single storm travelling roughly in a south-easterly direction, in which case the velocity of the movement of the body of the storm itself would have been about sixteen miles an hour. These slightly disturbed conditions continued up to about the 23rd, when ordinary hot-weather conditions again set in and continued up to the 27th, when, owing to large barometric changes, a rather deep barometric depression was formed in North Bengal. This was probably only a part of a larger disturbance or stormy weather in Sikkim and the Bhutan Himalayas, and on this day a gale of wind was reported from Darjeeling, but little or no rain accompanied the disturbed conditions at any of the reporting stations. The disturbed conditions, however, which were brought about by this stormy weather, gave rather heavily-clouded skies to many of the stations in the plains for several days, and even up to the close of the month the effects of the disturbance had not entirely disappeared.

Pressure.—The principal abnormal changes in the pressure distribution during the month have already been referred to under the description of the general meteorology. For the whole province the mean pressure has been almost steadily in excess of the normal, the average excess being 0·046 inch. The excess was largest in the first week of March, when it averaged about 0·1 inch to 0·14 inch.

Temperature.—At the commencement of the month temperature was generally somewhat in defect of the normal, the average for the first week showing a mean defect of about 0·6°. During the second week there was an increase in the mean temperature of the province of no less than 4° and temperature thus became decidedly in excess of the normal. A further very rapid increase took place in the third week, and for this period temperature was in excess of the normal by between 3° and 4°, while in Behar the excess was nearly 5°. The excess then commenced to decrease. For the whole month the average mean temperature of the province has been 1·6° in excess of the normal. In Assam the general temperature has been 2·2° in excess of the normal.

The following table will show the principal variations of temperature from the normal, week by week, during the entire month:—

Rainfall.—As stated previously, in no large district has the rainfall of the month been heavy. Average falls of about half an inch have been received in East and South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur; of about a third of an inch in South Behar; and of a fifth of an inch in Orissa; while the smallest falls have occurred in North Bengal and North Behar, where they have averaged only a tenth of an inch. Compared with the normals for the period, the actual falls expressed as a percentage become:—South Behar 73, Chutia Nagpore 47, South-West Bengal 35, North Behar 23, East Bengal 20, Orissa 19, and North Bengal 10.

The heaviest falls have occurred in the Noakhally district, which averages 3·29 inches, while in the Darjeeling Hills district an average of 2·62 inches has been received. In all other districts the falls have been much smaller, and average amounts of between half and one inch are reported in the 24-Pergunnahs, Howrah, Hooghly, Bankoorah, Burdwan, Beerbhoom, Nuddea, Jessore, Khoolna, Chittagong, Backergunge, Shahabad, Lohardugga, and Manbhoom districts. The remaining districts have received falls of less than half an inch, and in the following districts the falls are less than a tenth of an inch:—Pooree, Cuttack, Midnapur, Dacca, Mymensingh, Bogra, Pubna, Rajshahye, Maldah, Dinagepur, Purneah, Mozufferpur, Durbhanga, Chumparun, Monghyr, and Bhagulpur.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 1·0° lower; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

CALCUTTA, the 9th April 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 5TH APRIL 1889.

At the close of the previous week weather conditions were fairly normal, except for the fact that there was a shallow depression overlying North Bengal and Behar which, however, was showing decided signs of filling up and of moving in an easterly direction. On the 30th, or the first day of the present week, pressure fell rather rapidly in the centre and east of the province, and though pressure was relatively low over part of Bengal, the depression had practically disappeared and conditions became fairly normal. On the 31st pressure was rising, and this increase continued over the greater part of the province up to and including the 2nd; but by the morning of the 3rd the pressure commenced again to fall, showing that the highest point of the oscillation had been reached. The fall continued on the 4th, but on the 5th an increase again generally set in. This slow oscillation of pressure is characteristic of fine settled weather; and for the greater part of the week and over the greater part of the province weather has been fine, though in East Bengal at the commencement of the week a few local storms occurred. These local storms were perhaps in some way connected with the slightly disturbed conditions which had previously existed, and which at the commencement of the week were drifting in an easterly direction and filling up in their advance. Both East Bengal and later on Assam thus experienced a few local storms and received some showers, but for the week the greater part of Bengal has been almost absolutely rainless.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure have already been referred to, and for the week the mean pressure of the province has been about 0·02 inch in excess of the normal. This excess pressure has also been fairly equally distributed in the various districts.

Temperature—Has been subject to moderate fluctuations only. Compared with the normal, the mean temperature of the province has been only 1° in excess. In East Bengal, however, a larger excess of 2·2° is registered; while, on the other hand, the temperatures in North and South-West Bengal have been nearly normal. Most districts have reported decidedly high maximum temperatures, and in all except Chutia Nagpur, some stations have recorded temperatures in excess of 100°.

The following table will show the general temperature during the week. It contains the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province and their variation from the normal :—

Rainfall—During the week has been quite unimportant, and has been entirely confined to East Bengal; but even here the average fall only equals 0·17 inch. The district of Noakhally has received the largest fall, which here equals 0·61 inch. In the districts of Mymensingh and Backergunge average falls of nearly a quarter of an inch have been registered.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven Meterological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 5th April 1889 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

The annexed table, exhibiting the vital statistics of the principal Municipalities in Bengal for the week ending 23rd March 1889, furnishes the following results:—

1. Births and deaths were recorded in these Municipalities at the rates, respectively, of 21·9 and 24·5 per 1,000 of population, as opposed to 22·5 and 24·1 per 1,000 in the preceding week ending 16th March.

2. These events were registered at the highest rates in the undermentioned Municipalities:—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Rampore Beauleah	60·4	Purneah	131·6
Comillah	53·9	Puri	71·3
Durbhanga	48·8	Jessore	49·0
Santipore	45·5	Gya	48·5
Naraingunj	41·4	Naraingunj	41·4
Bhagulpore	37·1	Suburbs of Calcutta	32·9
Jessore	36·7	Kishnaghur	30·3
Serampore	35·3
Burdwan	32·0
Monghyr	30·7

3. The following table shows that, as compared with the results of the preceding week, there was an increase of mortality from cholera, but fractional differences in the number of deaths reported from the other diseases, vide figures given below:—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending— 23rd March 1889.	16th March 1889.
Cholera	5·8	4·7
Small-pox	·4	·2
Fever	8·2	8·8
Bowel-complaints	2·3	3·1
Injury	·2	·5
Other causes	7·6	6·8

4. Of the diseases specified above, cholera, fever, and the maladies coming under the head of "Other causes" proved conspicuously fatal only in the following Municipalities, and bowel-complaints only in the Serampore town, where the death-rate from this cause stood at 11·8 per 1,000 of population:—

Cholera.	Ratio per mille.	Fever.	Ratio per mille.	Other causes.	Ratio per mille.
Purneah	103·9	Jessore	36·7	Gya	14·3
Puri	37·7	Rampore Beauleah	26·3	Suburbs of Calcutta	11·2

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the ...es remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during four weeks ended 23rd February 1889.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in both the upwards and downwards traffic, the former was due to requirements by Foreign railways, and the latter to demand in Calcutta for shipment to out-ports and for local consumption.

Cotton.—The increase was principally in despatches from stations above Cawnpore to Howrah and Bombay.

Government stores.—This was chiefly in despatches from Howrah, Chunar and viâ Ghaziabad.

Lac.—Due to considerable despatches of lac-stick principally from viâ Ghaziabad and viâ Jubbulpore to Mirzapore.

Wheat.—The increase was chiefly in traffic from viâ Dighu Ghât and Moghalsarai to Howrah for shipment.

Stone.—This is in continuation of the increase reported for the last few months.

DECREASES.

Ghee.—There was an increase in weight carried, attended with a decrease in freight earned, due principally to diversion to the Indian Midland Railway route of despatches from Munhor to Bombay, and to a falling off in despatches from other stations on D district to Calcutta.

Piece-goods, European.—The decrease under this head was due to despatches from Howrah and viâ Jubbulpore owing to large trade centres in the North-Western Provinces having been overstocked by heavy despatches in December last.

Fruits, other kinds.—Due to poor traffic in betel-nuts.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—The decrease was chiefly in despatches from loop line stations, and was due to absence of demand both in Calcutta and up-country stations.

Gram and pulses.—

Other rain and spring crops.—The decreases under these heads were due to same cause as reported last month, viz., the demand at stations up-country owing to scarcity in 1888, did not exist in 1889.

Hides.—The decrease was principally in despatches from Cawnpore and Delhi, and was apparently due to up-country dealers holding out for better prices.

Oil.—This was almost entirely in despatches of kerosine oil from Howrah, and was due to heavy despatches during the corresponding month of last year.

Opium.—Due to Government arrangements for despatch.

Railway material, Foreign.—This decrease was chiefly in despatches from Calcutta, due to the completion of the Indian Midland Railway.

Salt.—Chiefly in despatches from Howrah owing to heavy speculation in 1888, consequent on the anticipated introduction of an additional import duty.

Seeds.—The decrease was chiefly in linseed and mustard seed; the former decrease was due to exceptional traffic in February 1888 and the absence of demand this year, and the latter was due to the Calcutta market being dull throughout the month.

Spices.—The falling off was principally in despatches of chillies from Mokameh and Mokameh Ghât

Sugar and Jaggree.—Partly due to diversion of traffic to the Indian Midland Railway from Cawnpore and at other stations to absence of demand.

Powers of Officers.

I.—All proceedings and orders of Assistant Settlement Officers shall be subject to the supervision and control of, and appeal to, the Settlement Officer.

II.—Proceedings and orders of the Settlement Officer shall be subject to the supervision and control of, and appeal to, the Deputy Commissioner.

III.—The proceedings and orders of the Deputy Commissioner shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Commissioner.

IV.—Assistant Settlement Officers and Settlement Officers shall have all the powers of a Sonthal Pergunnah Civil Court for the purpose of obtaining evidence, of disposing of objections to the survey and settlement proceedings, and of disposing of disputes on questions of right or title or other matters arising in connection with such proceedings.

Measurement.

V.—A measurement shall ordinarily be made of all lands included in the villages declared to be under settlement, but if in the Settlement Officer's opinion the records of the last measurement are sufficiently correct to permit of a record of rights and settlement of rents being prepared from them, such records may be corrected without remeasurement.

VI.—The exterior boundaries of the village shall be demarcated and measured, and a map shall be prepared according to scale. All trijunction points and natural features on or near the boundary shall be noted in the field-book and map.

VII.—Trijunction points and as many points on the boundary besides as may be necessary, shall be marked by boundary pillars. Stone pillars, blocks of stone, or other suitable material, shall be used.

VIII.—Within the village the cultivated land shall be measured field by field. All other land shall also be measured and recorded in plots of convenient size. A field is defined to be all land of one class in one block, and in possession of one raiyat.

IX.—There shall be a sketch map of the village showing the fields and plots as described in the preceding rule. A field register or khasra shall also be prepared with the following heads:—

Column 1. Number of field.
" 2. Boundaries.
" 3. Name and serial number of raiyat according to the village list, with parentage, caste and residence.
" 4. Other cultivators in possession, if any, with parentage, caste and residence.
" 5. Area in bighas by standard used in measurement.
" 6. Area in bighas by local standard.
" 7. Class of soil.
" 8. Name of crops grown in year of survey.
" 9. Description of land, cultivated, road, &c.
" 10. Remarks.

X.—The measurement staff shall be composed of Settlement Officer, Assistant Settlement Officer, Inspectors, Amins, Canoongoes and Putwaries. Putwaries shall, if possible, be local men.

XI.—The Khasra shall be written up on the field by the amins or putwaries, and all entries, as they are made daily, shall be explained by them to the parties, so that any mistake may be corrected at once. The entries will be attested a second time by the Settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer. Disputed entries will be left blank, and a separate list of all disputes will, from time to time, be sent to the Settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer.

XII.—The Settlement Officer is empowered to make rules for checking and testing the entries made by the putwaries, and generally for the guidance of his subordinates.

XIII.—The following documents shall compose the complete record of rights:—

A.—The khatians or jummabundis.

B.—The record of rights and duties.

Three copies of these documents shall be made, which shall be deposited as follows: one with the record at head-quarters, one at the sub-divisional head-quarters, and one with the village headman, or in khas villages with the landlord. A copy of so much of the jummabundi as relates to his holding shall be given on application to every raiyat. The patwari will make his own copies.

Record of Rights.

XIV.—There shall be a separate record of rights for each village, whether it be part of one estate or tenure, or contain the whole or part of several estates or tenures. There shall be a separate rent-roll for each estate or tenure within a village.

XV.—The khatians or jummabundi slips shall be compiled from the khasra in the form annexed.

Separate slips shall be prepared for each raiyat and under-raiyat; also for waste village forest roads, grazing grounds, &c.

XVI.—There shall be a record of rights and duties for the village. It shall be divided into parts, viz. one for proprietary rights and duties, and one for raiyats' rights and duties. Rights and duties shall be so recorded that the record shall be clear and complete in itself.

XVII.—The record of raiyats' rights shall contain among other particulars—

(1) The names of all recorded raiyats.

(2) The names of sub-raiyats or other persons, as mortgagees, with temporary interest found in possession of any land, with a reference to the fields, and a note of the nature of the interest of occupier.

XVIII.—In dealing with forest rights, the Settlement Officer may introduce such regulations, due regard being had to the existing rights of landlords and tenants, as to the manner of exercising such rights, and as to the trees or jungle over which they are to be exercised, as to ensure the permanent preservation of the village fuel and timber supply. It will be his duty to demarcate all village common land, whether forest, pasture, roads or other land, distinguishing it from waste, as not liable to cultivation.

XIX.—He shall likewise record all duties, such as police duties, duties relating to the repair of roads, tanks, reservoirs, and the like, and all rights, such as the right of taking fuel or wood for repairs (when kind and size of trees shall be specified), of irrigation, of pasture and all other rights.

XX.—The record of rights and duties shall be framed by the Settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer. When the khatian has been prepared, the Assistant Settlement Officer or Settlement Officer, as the case may be, will call the persons interested to meet him at a convenient place in or near the village, and will cause to be read in his presence the entries in the record of rights and the khatians. He will at the same receive and dispose of objections.

REPORT.

This estimate provides for manufacture and delivery of $10\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs* of table-moulded and building bricks delivered adjoining the tank at Fenny sub-division in the district of Noakhally, or on Government land, as may be required.

* 500,000 No. 1, 1st class table-moulded bricks.
200,000 ,, 1, 2nd ditto.
100,000 ,, 1, 2nd ditto, whole jhama.
150,000 brick bats.
100,000 jhama ,,

It is proposed to give out the work on contract. The contractor is to make his own arrangement for land and for tools and plant and importation of coal, &c., except in so far as the Executive Engineer is in a position to supply these.

The contractor will be allowed the use of whatever tools and plant there are in the division that can conveniently be spared; the contractor being responsible that they are returned in the same condition, allowing for fair wear and tear. A list of tools and plant available can be inspected at the Executive Engineer's Office at Chittagong.

The contractors must make their own arrangement for land, or Government land for a brick-field at Fenny will be given over to the contractors if desired, they paying a Royalty of Rs. 10 per lakh of bricks clamped if they use the field or any portion of it.

Samples of the different classes of bricks and brick material for concrete can be inspected at the Executive Engineer's Office at Chittagong.

F. SILLS, C.E., Executive Engineer, Chittagong Division.

SPECIFICATION FOR DIFFERENT CLASSES OF TABLE-MOULDED AND PUGGED CLAY BRICKS, AND BRICK MATERIAL SUITABLE FOR CONCRETE, TO BE MANUFACTURED AT THE FENNY SUB-DIVISION, AND TO BE DELIVERED ADJOINING THE CUTCHERRY TANK OR ON GOVERNMENT LAND AS MAY BE REQUIRED.

Bricks, 1st class—Should be rectangular, true-faced, have no points, sinking on either face, but a hollow on one or both sides. When saturated with water, should not absorb more than 10 per cent. of its own weight of water, should absorb it reluctantly, and part with it freely at an ordinary temperature. They should be uniformly burnt; should be sound, free from cracks, flaws, air-bubbles, stones, and lumps of any kind. but more especially lumps of lime. Should be of a good red color, should have a metallic clang when two bricks are struck together; when broken should show a compact uniform structure, should be tough and pasty in texture and not granular, and should require repeated blows to break them rather than one blow.

They are to be manufactured of well-pugged clay and table-moulded in moulds (measuring $10\frac{1}{4}''$ in length, $5\frac{1}{4}''$, in breadth and $3''$ deep, measured to stock plate), so as to turn out a wet brick, measuring $10\frac{1}{8}''$, $5\frac{1}{8}''$, $3''$ and $9\frac{3}{4}''$, $4\frac{3}{4}''$ and $2\frac{3}{4}''$ when burnt.

No inferior, under-burnt, ill-shaped or broken bricks of any kind or shape will be accepted as 1st class.

They are to be given over regularly stacked in stacks containing each 5,000 bricks. The bricks in these stacks must have one end exposed for inspection.

Bricks, 2nd class.—These bricks should be tolerably regular in shape with plane parallel surfaces. They are to be free from cracks and air-bubbles, sound and hard. They are to be manufactured of well-pugged clay and table-moulded in moulds (measuring $10\frac{1}{4}''$ in length. $5\frac{1}{4}''$ in breadth and $3''$ deep, measured to stock plate), so as to turn out a wet brick measuring $10\frac{1}{8}$," $5\frac{1}{8}$,", 3," and $9\frac{3}{4}$," $4\frac{3}{4}$," $2\frac{3}{4}$." when burnt. No under-burnt or ill-shaped bricks will be accepted in this class. They are to be given over regularly stacked in stacks containing each 5,000 bricks. The bricks in these stacks must have one end exposed for inspection.

Jhama entire building bricks—These bricks should be semi-vitrified bricks as may reasonably be supposed to be useful for the brick-work in the foundation of buildings. Must be tolerably regular in shape to the extent that they can easily be dressed with the trowel of the mason on his work, and the bond of the brick-work may not be destroyed on account of inequalities on the bricks. The bricks must be hard and sound and be manufactured of well-pugged clay and table-moulded in moulds (measuring $10\frac{1}{4}''$ in length, $5\frac{1}{4}''$ in breadth and $3''$ in deep, measured to stock plate), so as to turn out a wet brick measuring $10\frac{1}{8}''\times 5\frac{1}{8}''\times 3''$ and $9\frac{3}{4}''\times 4\frac{3}{4}''\times 2\frac{3}{4}''$ when burnt. No lumps of jhama or wholly vitrified bricks will be accepted in this class. They are to be given over regularly stacked in stacks containing each 5,000 bricks. The bricks in these stacks must have one end exposed for inspection.

Jhama for concrete.—In this class will be included all bricks which are thoroughly well burnt of well-pugged clay, but whose shapes are so irregular as to make them useless for ordinary building purposes.

No portion of the jhama bats or lumps must be so light as to float in water immediately after it is thrown in. They are to be given over regularly stacked. Each stack to be 4 feet high and 10 feet broad, and of a suitable length, but not to contain more than 1,000 cubic feet in a stack.

Broken bricks for concrete.—These broken bricks or bats to be of first class bricks only. They may be of irregular shape, but must be free from jhama and dust. They are to be given over regularly stacked; each stack to be 4' high and 10' broad, and of a suitable length, but not to contain more than 1,000 cubit feet in a stack.

F. SILLS, C.E. Executive Engineer, Chittagong.

Barton) will be sold by public auction by the Nazir of the District Judge of Tirhoot on the 15th day of April 1889, in the court-house in execution of decree No. 101 of 1889 in re Mossamut Shewburut Koar, decree-holder, versus Mr. J. PRIVATE FISHERIES BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL introduced the Bill "for the protection of the right of fishing in private waters" and moved that it be read in Council. He said :—

"After obtaining leave at the last meeting of the Council to introduce this Bill, it is unnecessary that I should enlarge on the subject, or repeat the reasons which exist for the introduction of the measure. Under the existing law private rights in fisheries are not sufficiently or effectually protected. By the law as it is, any infringement of these private rights is not punishable. These rights are very valuable; large sums of money are paid for, and great profits arise out of, the exercise of these rights. It is therefore necessary to protect these valuable rights, and it was for that purpose that this Bill has been introduced. The Bill, following the lines of English legislation on the same subject, is directed to three principal points: namely, first, to the offence of fishing in private fisheries; second, to the offence of erecting places and constructing appliances for the purpose of catching fish, without the permission of the owner, in private fisheries; and, thirdly, to make trespass upon these lands for the purpose of committing these depredations a criminal offence. The fifth section of this Bill provides that offences committed under this Act shall be considered cognizable offences, so that the police may arrest offenders then and there. I think this Bill will be found sufficient for the purposes which I originally explained, and under these circumstances I move that it be read in Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Nolan, the Hon'ble Mr. Allen, the Hon'ble Rajah Rameshwar Sing, the Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose, and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

POLICE SUPERANNUATION FUNDS BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON introduced the Bill "to consolidate the Calcutta and the Suburban Police Superannuation Funds" and moved that it be read in Council. He said :—

"It is unnecessary, as leave was granted at the last meeting of the Council to introduce the Bill, to say more than that there is a point pending whether any guarantee is necessary for the solvency of the funds, but I understand that upon that question the Local Government is still in correspondence with the Supreme Government, so that there is no necessity to say anything more now."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Allen, the Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose, and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CALCUTTA PORT BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON introduced the Bill "to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Port of Calcutta and to the appointment of Commissioners for the said Port" and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Macaulay, the Hon'ble Mr. Allen, the Hon'ble Mr. Moore, the Hon'ble Mr. Pratt, and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EMIGRANTS' SANITATION BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. NOLAN introduced the Bill "to provide for the sanitation of emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour districts in Assam" and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble MR. NOLAN also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Allen, the Hon'ble Mr. Moore, the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar, the Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose, and the Mover, with permission to report thereon within a fortnight. He said:—

"In explanation of the somewhat unusual provision giving the Select Committee power to report within a fortnight, I desire to state that there is no wish to bind the members to do their work more quickly than they may themselves find convenient; but it seems advisable to give them power to report, if they think fit, before the usual period of one month has expired. There is every reason for expediting the consideration of the measure, so far as can be done without precipitancy; for cholera, which, as His Honour the President informed you when asking leave to introduce this Bill, carried off six hundred emigrants last year, has recently, I much regret to state, broken out again. And it is hoped that no protracted period will be required for the examination of a Bill which merely embodies the simple principle that emigration should be subject to sanitary supervision, and that such supervision should be exercised in accordance with rules to be made by Government, and altered from time to time, so that they may always be in accordance with the varying necessities of the hour. This policy has been accepted without question for a quarter of a century: it was applied by this Council in the Acts of 1865 and 1870 to the special case with which we are now dealing, that of emigration to Assam, and by the Governor-General in Council in three well-known enactments to emigration to the Colonies, Burma and the Straits Settlements. That it was not consciously abandoned by the framers of the present law, Act I of 1882, may be inferred with the utmost certainty from the elaborate provisions made in that enactment, and in the rules framed under it, for the sanitary supervision of the only class of emigrants whom it dealt with; as also from the absence of any intimation in the voluminous correspondence and discussions by which the measure was preceded of a desire to dispense with such supervision. They could hardly have wished to enforce strict rules on a minority, while neglecting the greater number, travelling under precisely the same conditions; and had they intended thus to alter an established policy, they would certainly have given some reason for so doing.

"The explanation of the action taken in 1882, which this Bill intends to supplement rather than to alter, is to be found in the last statement, that the conditions are the same. Emigrants passing through Bengal to Assam are divided into two classes—the minority, who have already executed labour contracts under the Act, and the majority, who have not done so as yet: the health of the former is fully protected by law, and rules having the force of law, while for the latter nothing whatever is done. It was anticipated in 1882 that those who had not signed engagements, being as yet free from any legal bond, would be able to take care of themselves, just like other travellers, and if this expectation has not been fulfilled, the result has to some extent been produced by arrangements not contemplated in 1882—in particular by the facilities afforded to employers for putting labourers under contract as they pass through Dhubri, after leaving Bengal. However this may be, it is now matter of daily experience that emigrants of the two classes are obtained and despatched in the same way, being originally recruited in Chota Nagpur and Behar by planters' sirdars, or the contractors' men, or by arkatis, as they are called, working on their own account; being collected in depôts, and there detained until a sufficient number has been got together; being then forwarded in large batches, at their master's expense and under his complete control; and their destination being in both cases to work on tea gardens under statutory contracts. That these contracts are, in regard to one class, executed in Assam at the end of the journey, in regard to the other, here in Bengal, at its commencement, is a matter quite irrelevant when we are dealing with a question of physical health, and one which cannot properly, I submit, be made the ground for a distinction in the sanitary systems adopted for the two classes. A recruit drinking from a tainted well in an unlicensed depôt may imbibe the seed of cholera, although he has never put his mark to a contract; he may develop the fatal germs and spread them among hundreds, although he is called a free emigrant.

"But whatever the requirements of consistency, no change would be proposed in the law if existing arrangements did not work badly in practice. There have been complaints as to the food furnished to emigrants on their journey, the absence of clothing, the abandonment of the sick, and failure to bury the dead; but it is to the state of the depôts that the greatest importance is attached, and it is in these that the greatest improvement may be reasonably expected. The attention of Government was drawn to this point, by those most interested, in a letter which I might be permitted to read:—

'Dated Calcutta, the 22nd August, 1888.

From—G. M. BARTON, ESQ., Assistant Secretary, Indian Tea Association,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

'I AM directed by the General Committee of this Association to hand you herewith printed copy of a letter, dated the 18th of June, from Surgeon-General A. C. C. De Renzy, C.B., to the Secretary of the Indian Tea Districts Association, London, on the subject of the recent outbreak of cholera among coolies proceeding to Assam.

'It will be noticed that reference is specially made to the state of the depôts and the water-supply at Raniganj, and it is suggested that the Government of Bengal should depute a competent medical officer to report on the state of things at that place and at the halting-places between there and Dhubri, and to advise as to the measures that are required to put them in a good sanitary condition.

'The Committee are aware that the Government is already considering certain suggestions for the sanitary supervision of all coolie traffic to Assam; but they are of opinion that the recommendations of Dr. DeRenzy are worthy of attention, and they therefore beg to bring them to the notice of the Government.'

"The enclosure to the Association's letter begins—

'Dated 18, Clyde Road, Dublin the 18th June, 1888.

From—SURGEON-GENERAL A. C. C. DERENZY, C.B.,
To—ERNEST TYE, ESQ., Secretary, Indian Tea Districts Association.

'CHOLERA has been so fatal this season among the coolies in transit up the Brahmaputra that the Government, I believe, have found it necessary to suspend coolie emigration altogether. As this step must inflict immense injury on the tea interest in Assam, I venture to suggest that the Indian Tea Districts Association should take the opportunity of pressing on the Bengal Government the necessity of measures for preventing a repetition of such a disaster. It ought surely to be fully understood that cholera is the most preventible of all epidemic diseases; and when epidemics, such as have lately prevailed among the coolies occur, it may be assumed with absolute certainty that they are due to gross sanitary neglect somewhere.'

"I may quote another passage from Dr. De Renzy's letter as to the Raniganj depôts:—

'A gentleman who has recently been there describes the state of things as follows. He says:—'It would be a miracle if cholera were not bred at that place. The coolies recruited in the Chota Nagpur districts are collected there in depôts before being despatched by railway. The depôts are under no supervision whatever. Depôts that have space for 100 have frequently 900 crammed into them. The water-supply is from three wells, but is mainly drawn from tanks, which are foul in the extreme. The coolies defæcate anywhere and everywhere a yard from the depôts, and on the margins of the tanks. In fact, it is the Calcutta depôt system of 25 years ago.'

"Previous to the receipt of this communication the Lieutenant-Governor had, through the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, secured the inspection of the free depôts in this town, with the result that three out of seven were found to be in an unsatisfactory state. The entries in a statement before me as to these three depôts are:—

'The sanitary arrangements of the building are bad, the compound and nearly all parts of the building are in a filthy state, the floors of the rooms are undermined by rats: altogether the place is quite unfit for a coolie depôt.

'This place is also in a very bad state: the supply of water for bathing and other purposes is insufficient, and the building is too small for the number of persons accommodated.

'The building is a pucca two-storied one; the compound is not well kept, and the drain round the building is filthy. The accommodation is insufficient.'

"At the request of the Tea Association, Dr. Gregg, the Officiating Sanitary Commissioner, was deputed to inspect the mofussil depôts. He reported that two out of three free depôts visited by him in Chota Nagpur derived their water-supply from wells, the mouths of which were below the surface level, and which were therefore liable to receive the surface drainage. 'On the whole,' he writes, 'the present free depôts are of the most unsatisfactory kind, and should, I think, be placed as soon as possible under proper management and supervision.' As to Raniganj, he observes:—

'There is no doubt that the sanitary arrangements of the coolie depôts at Raniganj are very defective: the water used in them is drawn in many cases from tanks that are not over-clean; the cooking of the food is not properly attended to; and, in fact, there is an absence of that controlling supervision which has been found to be so necessary in respect of the coolie depôts situated in the Suburbs of Calcutta, in connection with Inland and Colonial Emigration. The depôts belonging to known persons number from 20 to 25, and there are many private depôts besides, in which the so-called free emigrants are accommodated until disposed of by persons whose livelihood depends upon such transactions, and with whom at present there cannot legally be any interference. I also admit that there was a foundation for complaints made by these managers in their turn, that their coolies were not sufficiently provided for on the lines of railway, and I take the opportunity of stating that the Railway authorities and Superintendent of Inland Emigration have recently made arrangements to limit the number of emigrants to be carried daily, so as to prevent overcrowding, to provide suitable carriages, good drinking water, to help the travellers at places suitable for refreshment or repose, and to secure adequate medical inspection and treatment.'

"I hope that in reading these extracts, which I think it my duty to place before the Council, I have not conveyed the impression that there is any very gross or scandalous neglect at these depôts. Dr. Comins, the Superintendent of Inland Emigration, who has just completed an inspection more detailed than had been previously made, informs me that he was rather surprised to find that they were no worse; that since attention has been prominently directed to the subject there has been some improvement; and that the managers seem disposed to act on his advice, though he has at present no legal position in regard to them. He did not, however, find that when care was taken in sanitary matters, it was always exercised according to knowledge; for instance, in one case where a brick drain was made at some expense from a latrine, it was given its outlet in a tank, the water of which is used for drinking purposes by the emigrants. I have also to acknowledge that there was much truth in counter-complaints made by the coolie contractors that the arrangements on railways, over which they had no control, were deficient. This is a matter to which the Lieutenant-Governor has recently given much attention with the result that steps have been taken to prevent overcrowding, to secure the use of suitable carriages, to establish medical inspection on the route, and afford medical assistance, as also to provide for necessary halts, for food and repose. It is well known that coolies when first taken away from their homes are, for reasons easily understood, peculiarly liable to cholera, and, therefore, need special care to guard them against infection, the results of which cannot be prevented by any subsequent treatment. And it is also obvious that as coolies from different depôts are brought together in the train, at Dhubri, and on the Assam steamers, any outbreak of cholera among one batch is likely to spread widely, so that the most careful master may suffer for the neglect of his neighbour. For instance, the depôts for coolies recruited according to the Act are, by all accounts, kept in excellent order under Government supervision, but their inmates can have no exemption from cholera on the journey if they are massed with men coming from an infected depôt. It is the case of the chain-cable no stronger than its weakest part; to provide for the safety of the ship we have to test every link. Such being the circumstances, I hope that this Council, and those interested in the great tea industry, as also the public generally, may accept a Bill which, though it does not purport to deal with the whole question of the supply of labour to Assam, is, I submit, sufficient for its purpose, and can hardly fail to effect an immediate and appreciable improvement in the sanitary condition of the places where cholera is too often generated."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MOHAMMEDAN BURIAL BOARD'S BILL.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON introduced the Bill "to provide for the appointment of a Mohammedan Burial Board in Calcutta" and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.
The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble SIR HENRY HARRISON also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft, the Hon'ble Mr. Allen, the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar, the Hon'ble Shahzada Mahommed Furrokh Shah, and the Mover. He said:—

"With your Honour's permission, I should like to add that permission to report thereon be given within a fortnight. With reference to the explanation which has fallen from the hon'ble member opposite, I think it would be advisable if leave were given to this Committee also to report in a fortnight if it sees its way to do so. Although the rules which may be framed under the Bill may require a great deal of care and consideration, the Bill itself is of a somewhat simple character, and I think it quite possible for the Select Committee to report within a fortnight; and as it has been represented that the appointment of the Board is urgently required within the present year, it seems desirable to pass the Act as soon as possible."

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT—"If no one objects, I shall give the permission."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 20th April, 1889.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Mean of six days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten yea[rs] ... variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numb[er den]oting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past [...]rs. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the sub-divisional [...] divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least [a h]undredth of an inch fell.

CALCUTTA, the 16*th April* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 12TH APRIL 1889.

THE week began with fine weather everywhere, temperature was high, and pressure above the normal. Pressure had been rising, but on the first day of the week a fall set in, at first slowly in the north-west districts, but afterwards more rapidly all over the province. Gradients became steep at the head of the Bay, and strong southerly winds began to blow at the coast stations. On Sunday pressure was considerably below the normal everywhere, but weather continued generally fine, and a few showers fell in the hill districts only. On Monday a few light local showers fell in North Bengal, and though pressure continued to fall, the first signs of an increase were shown in the extreme west of Behar. This rise was general on the following day; the strong current which had been blowing on the coast was consequently checked, and storms began in Chutia Nagpur, South-West and East Bengal. The amount of rain was generally small, and rarely exceeded half an inch. On Wednesday and Thursday, the two following days, those storms continued, and were most general on the latter, following one another after a few hours' interval. While the weather was stormy in these districts, very little rain fell in North Bengal, and it was almost entirely absent from Behar. Temperature fell rapidly during these days, and the mean was, in some cases, largely in defect; but the variations from the mean were necessarily irregular. On Friday there was a general fall of pressure, scarcely any rain fell, and weather generally improved.

Pressure.—At the beginning of the week pressure was in excess, but the fall which then commenced quickly reduced the excess, and on Sunday a defect everywhere existed, amounting in some cases to ·05″. The fall continued for the first three days of the week. On Tuesday a rise set in and lasted till Thursday, after which pressure again fell. There was defective pressure only on Sunday and Monday. The mean pressure for the whole week has been everywhere in excess, the largest variation being in Behar and amounting to ·08″. With the exception of the fall on Sunday, and a somewhat rapid rise at a few stations on Tuesday and Wednesday, pressure changes have been generally small.

Temperature.—Temperature was generally high in the early part of the week, but with the commencement of stormy weather large local falls began. On Tuesday and Wednesday several stations reported falls exceeding 7°. At Balasore, on Wednesday, there was a fall of over 10°. Temperature for the week has been in excess in all districts, the largest having been in Behar and North Bengal. The excess for Behar has been a little over 3°; in East Bengal and North Bengal very nearly 3°; in Chutia Nagpur 1·7°; in Orissa 0·6°; and in South-West Bengal 0·9°.

The accompanying table shows the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in the province, as compared with the normal values for the same period:—

Rainfall.—A few showers fell in North Bengal on Sunday, and thunderstorms with rain were general in Chutia Nagpur and South-West and East Bengal during Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. In some cases fairly heavy falls occurred, the largest being 1·5″ at Balasore on Wednesday. Very little rain fell in Behar, North Bengal, and Orissa. In North Behar rain was entirely absent. South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur received an average amount of about two-thirds of an inch of rain, which is considerably in excess of the normal; in all other districts the amounts are in defect.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meterological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 12th April 1889 :—

Notification.

The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct, under section 45 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), that the river Kusi and its channels within the districts of Bhagulpore and Purneah are areas within which all unmarked wood and timber, and all wood and timber on which the marks have been obliterated or defaced by fire or otherwise, are deemed to be the property of Government, unless or until any person establishes his right and title thereto under the provisions of the said Act and the rules made under it.

RULES.

Drift Timber Rules for the River Kusi and its channels within the districts of Bhagulpore and Purneah made under section 51 of the Indian Forest Act.

1. Drift timber may be salved by any person.—All pieces of unmarked wood or timber, and all pieces on which marks have been obliterated or defaced by fire or otherwise, found adrift, beached, stranded or sunk in or on the banks of the river Kusi and its channels, may be salved by any person.

2. Report to be made when wood or timber is salved.—The salvor shall intimate without delay the fact that he has salved wood or timber to the Forest Officer, or to such Police or other officer or subordinate as the Forest Officer may from time to time direct to receive such reports.

3. Salvage fees.—Any such person who shall have salved wood or timber under these rules shall be entitled to receive as salvage fees—

PAYMENT OF RENT BY MEANS OF POSTAL MONEY-ORDERS.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 22nd April, 1889.

RESOLUTION.

READ again—

The Report, dated the 27th October 1885, of the Committee appointed to consider and advise on the Rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act.

Read—

Resolution of this Government dated the 20th March 1888.

Letter from this Government to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, No. 3461—1207L.R., dated the 19th November 1887.

Petition, dated the 6th February 1888, from Prasanna Kumar Ghosal and other ryots of Uttarbarh-Jhampardah in the district of Howrah.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, No. 993A, dated the 29th October 1888, with enclosures.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, No. 217A, dated the 9th March 1889, with enclosures.

The Committee appointed in 1885 to draft rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act recommended that the question of permitting rent to be paid by means of postal money-orders, under the provisions of section 54 (2), should stand over pending a trial of the plan of paying Government revenue through that agency. The experiment of receiving the land revenue through the Post Office has since been made, and as it has proved an admitted success, the Board of Revenue now propose the extension of the system to the payment of rent. The concession has, moreover, been asked for in a petition by the ryots of Uttarbarh-Jhampardah in the district of Howrah, and the proposal derives some support from the fact that it has already been adopted in the North-Western Provinces, where the circumstances are not very dissimilar. It appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that when landlords and tenants are on friendly terms the use of postal money-orders for the remission of rent will frequently be convenient as the readiest means of transmitting small sums; and that where differences exist, it will serve in some degree as a substitute for the more expensive and troublesome method of depositing rent in the Civil Court under section 61 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. His Honour accordingly considers it desirable to grant the desired permission experimentally in the Burdwan Division with effect from the 1st July, 1889, its continuance and further extension being dependent upon a report to be submitted after the expiry of six months from that date. The subjoined draft of the rules which it is proposed to issue with this object is published, under section 190 (3) of the Act, for general information and criticism, and it is hereby notified that objections will be received during one month from the date of the first publication of this Resolution in the Calcutta Gazette. The rules prepared by the Postal Department in this connection are also published as an annexure for general information.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution, with its annexures, be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

DRAFT RULES.

II. POSTAL RULES RELATING TO RENT MONEY-ORDERS.

THESE rules are divided into five sections—

Section I.—Form of Rent money-order.
Section II.—Issue of Rent money-orders.
Section III.—Payment of Rent money-orders.
Section IV.—Disposal of Rent money-orders not accepted by the payee (zemindar).
Section V.—Disposal of Rent money-order acknowledgments.

SECTION I.

The form of Rent money-order.

1. The rent money-order form is divided into four parts, viz.—

(a) The money-order.
(b) The receipt. This is printed below the money-order, and will be retained by the Postal Department.
(c) The coupon. This is the counterfoil or landlord's portion of the receipt.
(d) The acknowledgment. This is the tenant's receipt.

2. Parts (a) and (b) require no description, as they are exactly like the corresponding portions of the ordinary inland money-order form. Part (c) is double the size of the coupon of an ordinary money-order form. On one side of this part are printed headings to provide for the entry of full particulars of the remittance, and on the other side are special instructions relating to rent money-orders. Part (d) is also double the size of the acknowledgment of an ordinary money-order, and contains the same headings as part (c).

3. This form is to be used for rent money-orders only, and for no other purpose.

4. Forms of rent money-order should be freely distributed among the rent-paying classes, and every facility should be given to tenants to obtain these forms.

5. Every postmaster, sub-postmaster and branch postmaster will be personally responsible that a sufficient supply of rent money-order forms is always available in his office. In case of emergency, supplies may be obtained by telegraph direct from the Stock Depôt. Divisional Superintendents and Inspectors, when visiting offices, will see that a sufficient supply of rent money-order forms is available, and mention the fact in their inspection reports.

SECTION II.

Issue of Rent money-orders.

6. Rent money-orders are issued from every head, sub and branch post-office under the rules which govern the issue of ordinary inland money-orders. The following rules contain additional instructions which relate specially to the issue of rent money-orders.

7. The rule prohibiting the inclusion of pies (fractions of an anna) in the amount of an ordinary money-order does not apply to rent money-orders, which may contain any fractions of an anna not less than one pie.

8. There must be a separate money-order for each tenure or holding. Rent for two tenures or holdings may not be sent by one money-order.

9. The office of issue, when requested to do so, will help the remitter to make the requisite entries, and, if necessary, will make entries for him in the form of rent money-order; but no fee or any gratification for this service may be demanded or accepted, either directly or indirectly, by any official of the Postal Department.

10. Persons remitting money by rent money-orders should be informed that unless they have received special instructions from the landlord on the subject, they should make the orders payable to the landlord, or to his agent, or to the manager (if one has been appointed), according as the rent has previously been paid to the landlord, or to his agent, or to a manager. The name of the payee must in each case be entered on the money-order. In the absence of special instructions from the landlord, a rent money-order should always be made payable at the place at which the tenant has previously paid rent. If the rent has previously been collected in the tenant's village by an agent whose office is not in the village, the money-order should be made payable at the agent's permanent office, or at such other place as the landlord may appoint.

11. The office of issue is responsible that no rent money-order is issued of which the coupon and acknowledgment are blank, or are not completely filled up. The post-office has no means of ascertaining the correctness of the information supplied by the remitter; all that is necessary is that the postmaster or money order clerk should see that entries are made against every heading in the coupon and acknowledgment. No rent money-order may be accepted for issue in which there is any erasure or correction in the name or month or year of the kist for which a remittance is made. If the remitter wishes to make any alteration, or tenders a money-order in which there is any alteration or erasure in the entry of the name or month or year of the kist, he must be instructed to fill up a fresh money-order.

12. The word "rent" should be written before the number of every rent money-order, and this mode of distinguishing rent money-orders should be adopted wherever the number is entered. The number assigned to a rent money-order by the head office or sub-office of issue will also be entered at the top of the coupon and acknowledgment by the money-order clerk of the head office, or the sub-postmaster of the sub-office of issue, as the case may be.

13. One line of the return of rent money-orders issued (Form 2—Rent) should be filled in by every head and subordinate office at the close of each day. On the 1st of the following month the return should be totalled and sent to the disbursing postmaster. The disbursing postmaster will compile a general return (Form 3—Rent) and submit it to the Postmaster-General not later than the 10th of the month following that to which it relates. Branch offices will not submit any returns, as rent money-orders issued from such offices will be included in the returns of their account offices.

SECTION III.

Payment of Rent money-orders.

14. Before a rent money-order is made over to the postman for payment, the money-order clerk or postmaster of the office of payment will carefully examine the name or month and the year of the kist entered in the coupon and acknowledgment, and satisfy himself that they have been clearly entered and bear no marks of erasure or correction.

15. If the examination prescribed in rule 14 shows any discrepancy or alteration in the entries of the kists in the coupon and the acknowledgment, the money-order must not be paid to the payee, but should be returned to the office of issue for repayment to the remitter with the following certificate endorsed in red ink by the postmaster of the office of payment across the acknowledgment :—" Entry of kist defective : returned for payment to remitter—(signature) postmaster." The office of payment will at the same time note the error in the error-book, and send a copy of the entry to the Superintendent, in whose jurisdiction the office of issue is situated, in order that the official in fault may be punished.

16. On receipt of the copy of the entry in the error-book, the Superintendent will take such action as appears to him suitable, having regard to the special instructions to offices of issue in rule 11 of these rules.

17. A rent money-order should always be paid at the landlord's office at the place of payment entered in the money-order. If the money-order is drawn out as payable to the landlord himself, payment may be made to him or to any person authorized by him in writing to act as his agent, or to receive payment of money-orders in his favour. If the money-order is drawn out as payable to two or more joint landlords, the receipt and acknowledgment must be signed by both or all of the landlords, or by an agent authorized in writing by both or all of the landlords. If the money-order is drawn out as payable to an agent or manager, payment may only be made to the payee named, and not to any one else. In making over money to postmen for payment of rent money-orders, the postmaster of the office of payment must observe the limit fixed for the amount to be entrusted at one time to a single postman or village postman. The date stamp of the office of payment should be impressed on the acknowledgments just before the money-orders are given to the postmaster for payment.

18. In all other respects rent money-orders will be dealt with in the office of payment exactly like ordinary inland money-orders.

19. One line of the return of rent money-orders paid and refused (Form 4—Rent) should be filled in by every head and subordinate office at the close of each day. On the 1st of the following month the return should be totalled and sent to the disbursing postmaster. The disbursing postmaster will compile a general return (Form 5—Rent) and submit it to the Postmaster-General not later than the 10th of the month following that to which it relates. Branch offices will not submit any returns. The rent money-orders paid by Branch offices will be included in the returns of their account offices.

SECTION IV.

Disposal of Rent money-orders not accepted by the payee.

20. If a rent money-order is refused by the payee, the postmaster of the office of payment will certify in red ink across both the coupon and acknowledgment that the payee has declined to receive payment. This certificate must always be recorded on refused rent money-orders, whether the payee has or has not noted his refusal in writing, and the certificate will be signed by the postmaster. The postman who presented the order with the amount thereof to the payee will write his name and the date of presentation under the postmaster's signature. The refused money-order will then be treated in the usual way and returned to the office of issue (with the coupon stitched to it) for repayment to the remitter. The coupon will be made over to the remitter (tenant) when the amount of the order is repaid to him. The acknowledgment will, when the office of payment is a disbursing office, be retained in that office. In the case of any other office of payment, the acknowledgment for a refused money-order will be retained by that office until the 1st of the following month, when it will be attached to the return of rent money-orders paid and refused, and be forwarded to the disbursing office. The acknowledgments relating to refused money-orders will be filed in monthly bundles in the disbursing office, and the postmaster will be responsible for their safe custody for three years from the last day of the agricultural year in which the money-orders were issued. On the expiry of the three years the acknowledgments should be destroyed.

21. In all other respects refused rent money-orders will be dealt with exactly like ordinary inland refused money-orders.

SECTION V.

Disposal of Rent money-order acknowledgments.

22. The acknowledgments appertaining to rent money-orders will be sorted separately for each office of issue and enclosed in envelopes (Form 8—Rent), addressed to the postmasters of those offices, the numbers of the money-orders to which the acknowledgments appertain being detailed on the back of the envelopes.

23. These envelopes will be detailed in a special book of rent money-order acknowledgments returned (Form 6—Rent), and will be despatched as letters registered on postal service. The total number of acknowledgments closed in each envelope will be the registered number assigned to that envelope.

24. On arrival in the office of issue, the envelopes will be opened and the acknowledgments will be compared with the entries on the back of the envelopes. The acknowledgments will then be sorted for distribution to postmen. The numbers of all the acknowledgments to be given to each postman will be detailed separately in a special book of rent money-order acknowledgments delivered (Form 7—Rent), and the postman's signature will be taken against the entry. The acknowledgments will then be handed over to the postmen. The envelopes will be sorted in daily and monthly bundles and retained for 12 months, after which period they should be destroyed.

25. The postmen will enter acknowledgments in detail in their books, and will obtain the remitter's signature or mark therein when delivering each acknowledgment.

26. Acknowledgments appertaining to rent money-orders, the remitters of which have removed to beyond the delivery range of the original office of issue, will be forwarded direct to the remitters at their new addresses (if known), enclosed in postal service registered covers.

27. Acknowledgments which cannot be delivered in consequence of the remitters not being found will be returned by the postman to the postmaster or money-order clerk (as the case may be), who will sign for them in the postman's book or village postman's register.

28. Undelivered acknowledgments will be kept in the office of issue (if a head office) for a period of six months, and if still unclaimed will be forwarded under a postal service registered cover to the office of the Postmaster-General.

29. In sub and branch offices undelivered acknowledgments will be retained for a period of ten days, and, if still unclaimed, will be forwarded to the head office under a postal service registered cover. Such acknowledgments will be kept in the head office for a further period of six months, and, if still undelivered, will be forwarded under a postal service registered cover to the office of the Postmaster-General.

30. A rent money-order acknowledgment received in the Postmaster-General's office under the provisions of the two preceding paragraphs will be kept in that office for a period of three years from the last day of the agricultural year in which the money-order was issued, and if not claimed within that period will be destroyed.

31. Postmasters, Sub-postmasters and Branch postmasters of the offices of issue will be responsible that acknowledgments are delivered to remitters of rent money-orders without any unnecessary delay and free of charge. It will be useful to make enquiries as to the punctual and free delivery of acknowledgments from tenants who may call at post-offices to have rent money-orders issued.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Report of the Select Committee is, by order of the President, published for general information:—

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

WE, the members of the Select Committee on the Bill "to provide for the sanitation of emigrants during their passage through Bengal to the labour districts in Assam," have considered the Bill.

2. We recommend that the Bill, as introduced into the Council, be passed.

Legislative Department.

The 23rd April 1889.

THE following Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them is, by order of the President, published for general information :—

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.

WE, the Committee appointed to consider the Bill for the protection of the right of fishing in private waters, beg to submit the following report :—

2. We have made certain alterations in the Preamble and in the section of "Definitions" which require no special comment.

3. We have slightly altered the form and amended the phraseology of section 3. We also consider the provisions of this section should not be made applicable to the case of a person desirous of fishing with a rod and line, or with a line only, in navigable rivers, and in accordance with this view we have added a paragraph to section 3, giving effect to this conclusion.

4. We consider that the power which, under section 6, makes it possible for the owner of a private fishery to seize and take possession of any contrivance illegally used for the purpose of taking fish might lead to abuse, and in some cases prove an incentive to an act of breach of the peace. The section which we deem it desirable to substitute for section 6, after declaring that such contrivance shall be forfeited, reserves to the Magistrate of the district or to the person acting under his authority, the right to remove and take possession of such contrivance after forfeiture.

5. An opinion was expressed and supported by more than one member of the Select Committee that the penal provisions of the Bill should be specifically exempted from operation in all cases where a person fishing in private waters was found to have so acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of. We consider this to be a matter which can more fitly be discussed as a substantive amendment introduced by the member who advocates its insertion, when the Bill next comes up for consideration by the Council. For the present we desire to express no opinion on its merits.

6. Subject to the reservation contained in the last paragraph, we recommend that the Bill, as amended by us, be passed.

OUTTURN OF CROPS.

THE following papers are published for general information, in continuation of those published at pages 2511—26 of the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette of the 19th December, 1888.

REVENUE DEPT.,
CALCUTTA;
The 22nd April, 1889.

By order of the Lieut.-Govr. of Bengal,
P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Govt of Bengal.

Estimated outturn of Rubbee Crops and of important special crops, viz., Jute, Tobacco, Sugarcane, &c., for the year 1888-89.

NOTE.

THE present season has been unfavourable to the rubbee crops. The sowing was done with difficulty, and in some places over a reduced area on account of the failure of the Hatya rain. In Rajshahye, Bogra, Patna, Gya, and Shahabad the crops were also injured by a hail-storm. As was to be expected under these conditions, a harvest below the average is reported from almost every district; while in Hazaribagh, Singbhoom, Lohardugga, Pooree, Bankoora, Chittagong, and Shahabad the estimated outturn is far below the average. A sixteen-anna crop has been estimated only in the following places, namely, in the sub-divisions of Tumlook, Bhuddruck, Uluberia, Sarun, Sewan, Laibagh, and Jungipore, and in the Rungpore district.

On the whole not more than a ten-anna crop for the entire province may be expected.

2. One of the statements annexed to this note shows the estimated outturn of the most important special crops grown in Bengal, such as sugarcane, potatoes, poppy, ganja, &c. Sugarcane has suffered from a deficiency of rainfall in the Burdwan Division, and in Patna, Chittagong, and Furreedpore; while in Hooghly, Nuddea, and Jessore it was partially destroyed by floods. In Shahabad the outturn is estimated at a little over ten annas, but this is a much better crop than was obtained last year. A bumper crop has been reported from Sarun.

Much damage has been done to the ganja and the poppy crops by hail-storms.

A splendid crop of mulberry is expected in Moorshedabad, but it has not done so well in other places.

Tobacco has done badly in all the important tobacco-growing districts in Bengal excepting the Sudder sub-division of Rungpore, where a full average crop is expected.

M. FINUCANE,
Director of Land Records and Agriculture.

Letter No. 1275, dated 28th March 1889, from the Superintending Engineer, Sone Circle.

An examination of the rules which have been issued in connection with the various canal systems shows that they differ greatly as regards the officers who are exempted from the payment of tolls. In future, in supersession of all previous orders on the subject, only the officers and vessels enumerated in the following schedule will be exempted from payment of tolls. These orders will take effect from the 1st May 1889. Any exceptional cases, where exemption appears for special reasons to be desirable or necessary, will be referred by Superintending Engineers for orders of Government :—

SCHEDULE.

Officers exempted from payment of canal tolls.

1. Canal officers, i.e., those directly in charge of Irrigation works, and whose duty will necessitate travelling through the canals for inspection thereof, when on duty.
2. Deputy Revenue Superintendents of Irrigation when on duty.
3. Police officers when on duty.

N. B.—No officer can claim exemption on the mere ground that he is connected, as regards his duties, with any of the abovementioned officers : for instance, a Magistrate and Collector is in the former capacity the superior of the police officer, and in the latter the superior of the Deputy Revenue Superintendent, but this cannot in any way be allowed as qualifying him for exemption.

Vessels.

1. Vessels carrying troops.
2. Vessels owned by the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta, which may enter the Calcutta canals or Tolly's Nullah either from stress of weather or on business connected with the port, and which do not carry passengers, materials, or goods.

ORDERED—That a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department; Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces; Commissioners of the Orissa, Burdwan, Patna, and Presidency Divisions; Collectors of Cuttack, Midnapore, Patna, Shahabad and Gya; Inspector-General of Police; Superintending Engineers, Orissa, South-Western and Sone Circles; and Examiner, Public Works Accounts, Bengal.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. I. HARRISON, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,
Offg. Joint-Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,
P. W. Dept.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.
The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal means ... by the sub divisional station for the period in question during the past 21 years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional

CALCUTTA, the 23*rd April* 1889.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS MADE IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 19TH APRIL 1889.

TOWARDS the end of the previous week weather conditions had been somewhat disturbed in Bengal, and local storms had been rather numerous. On Friday the 12th, however, conditions appeared to be improving, and the nor'-westers were principally confined to East Bengal. On the 13th, or the first day of the present week, conditions were fairly normal in all districts, and fine weather prevailed generally except at a few stations in Orissa, where local storms with rain were reported. On the 14th, conditions remained practically unchanged, the pressure and temperature changes being small and unimportant. Weather again remained fine over the greater part of the province except in East Bengal, where a few showers were reported. On the morning of Monday, the 15th, again the general barometric changes were small, and pressure was rising by moderate amounts. Temperature on this and the previous day was also decidedly high, and a good many stations reported maximum temperatures of about 100° and upwards. The winds blowing over Bengal on this day, however, were decidedly anomalous in direction. Over the greater part of the interior of the province easterly, and even in some cases north-easterly, winds were reported, while at the southern stations winds were strongly southerly, so that there was a certain amount of interaction going on. That such was the case is also proved by the fact that winds showed considerable variation in directions at many stations from the morning of the 14th to the 15th, and from the 15th to the 16th; and with these variations there was also decided changes in the humidity of the atmosphere. These conditions brought about a series of disturbances in the form of local stor ns or nor'-westers, which were very general on the 15th over East Bengal and over parts of North and South-West Bengal. Most of these were of little strength and importance, but one of them in the Rajshahye district would appear to have developed into a tornado, probably of small size, which was sufficiently powerful to wreck a train on the Northern Bengal State Railway about 32 miles from Sara, and which also damaged some of the villages near the line of railway. On the 16th conditions remained nearly unaltered, though pressure was slightly low over Bengal, and conditions were fairly normal except for the strong easterly component in the wind directions at many stations in the province. This latter, however, has been a marked feature in the wind directions for the greater part of the week, and as strong southerly winds at the southern stations have been bringing up large quantities of moisture to the province. local storms, some of which were accompanied by heavy rain, have continued to occur, particularly in East and North Bengal, almost up to the close of the week. From the 16th to the 19th the pressure and temperature changes were rather small, and conditions remained practically unchanged. Thus during the week moderately heavy rain has occurred in East Bengal, and light to moderate rain in South-West and North Bengal and Orissa, but elsewhere it has been practically rainless.

Pressure.—The principal variations of pressure during the week have already been referred to. Taking into consideration only those stations which yield reliable normal pressure averages, the mean pressure for the week has been 0·02 inch in excess of the normal.

Temperature—Was very high during the first two or three days of the week over the entire province, but with the occurrence of local storms with rain, temperature was decidedly lower in many districts during the second half of the week. The mean temperature for the whole week has been above the normal by about one degree in Orissa, South-West Bengal, Behar and Chutia Nagpur, while it has been about half a degree below it in East and North Bengal. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has therefore been above the normal by about half a degree. Many stations have reported maximum temperatures above 100° during the week, the highest recorded being 107·4° at Dehree on the 19th and 107° at Rampore on the 18th instant.

The following table gives the average temperature data for the week at nine typical stations in different districts in the province:—

Rainfall.—The rainfall which has been brought entirely by local storms or nor'-westers has been very unequally distributed. At some stations these storms have given little or no rain, while at others very heavy falls are reported. Thus on the 16th Meherpur reported no less than 4·50 inches. Falls exceeding two inches within 24 hours have also been recorded during the week at Mymensingh, Netrokona, Alipore Door, and Fallacotta. The heaviest falls have usually occurred in East Bengal, which averages 1·21 inches, or an amount very considerably in excess of the normal. In South-West Bengal and North Bengal the falls have averaged about a third of an inch, and in Orissa about a quarter of an inch. In these three districts the falls have been about normal for the period. In other districts rainfall has been practically absent.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meterological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 19th April 1889 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of [illegible] employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.
